BENDING AN EAR—Well, this is another fine mess you've gotten us into, Jerry! Gee whizz, Tom, I was just trying to get somebody's attention. Yeah Jerry, but you got everybody's attention and now here we are at the Hancock County Animal Shelter on Gulfside Drive in Waveland. At least we've got food and water, Tom. And a cage, Jerry! But Tom, one of those humans with the Bay-Waveland Humane Society says we're now available to a good home if someone would just stop by the shelter to adopt us anytime from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. today, from 10 a.m. to noon on Friday or from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturday. Fat chance, Jerry, I think we've had it. You're such a nifty, Tom. (Staff photo by Wayne Ducomb Jr.)

Regulations preventing ice house, more dealers at Cadet Marina

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
An official of the State Health Department reports that based on current regulations and existing facilities an ice house or another seafood dealer can not operate anywhere on Hancock County property at Bayou Cadet.
Anthony Taconi, a shellfish sanitation specialist of the department's Gulfport office, said Tuesday that due to the proximity of a county-owned sewage treatment plant that a well necessary to provide water for an ice plant or a seafood dealership on that property could not be permitted by the state.
However, he said an ice facility or a dealership could probably locate in other privately-owned areas of the Bayou Cadet docking area which are away from the sewage plant serving Bayou Cadet Fisheries.

dealership serving the county-owned Bayou Cadet Marina area leased by the Gulf Fishermen's Association.
James DeBlanc, Hancock Port and Harbor Commission executive director, Tuesday explained the fisheries operation subleases the county-owned concession stand building, water well and sewage treatment plant there from the association.
He further explained that on April 14 the commission accepted a 100-foot by 60-foot area of the marina property from the association's original lease to in turn lease to Bayou Cadet Shell and Fish provided that it build an ice house and bulkhead within six months along a commercial finger canal and provide fuel for the fishermen.
DeBlanc said the shell and fish company, owned and operated by Jimmy Ingersoll, was then allowed to also act as a seafood dealer because the commission realized the firm could not survive on fuel and ice revenues alone.

But after six months the bulkhead and ice house were not built. Ingersoll requested a contract extension to May 1 due to poor shrimp and oyster seasons, but the commission took no action on the request submitted in November, DeBlanc explained.
In addition, May and Terry Ladner of the association reported at a Thursday night commission meeting that Ingersoll was dealing oysters without the required state permit and noted the ice facility and dock had not yet been built.
Joe Everett Monday said he was an officer of Bayou Cadet Shell and Fish until August when he divested himself of the firm, but as a friend of Ingersoll he wanted to explain why the company did not build the facilities and obtain the necessary shell stock permit.
He explained that Louis Fernandez of the Hancock County Health Department would not allow the company to drill a well which is necessary at Bayou Cadet to provide water to make ice and operate a restroom with hot and cold water as required for the permit.

DeBlanc said the commission did not realize a well could not be drilled in the marina area when the contract was approved.
Ingersoll said Tuesday that May and Ladner are using the association to eliminate competition.
Bayou Cadet Shell and Fish was paying fishermen more for oysters which forced May to increase his price, Ingersoll reported.
"I'm made to look like a bandit. The association has 52 members and only eight of them attended a meeting and voted to do this," Ingersoll stated and reported he is treasurer of the group.
He said his company has provided bagged ice to fishermen just as May has, but in frustration with the entire BAYOU CADET—Page 8A

HGH death suit seeks $18 million

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT
A multi-million dollar lawsuit was filed Tuesday in Hancock County Circuit Court on behalf of the children of Margaret Ann Amann who died May 25 following minor surgery at Hancock General Hospital.
Plaintiffs in the wrongful death action are Tracy Ann Amann, 10, and Howard Joseph Amann Jr., 8, through their father Howard Joseph Amann, widower of the deceased and executor of her estate.
Defendants are Joseph Nodurt; Debra Rucker; Hancock General Hospital; Medical Specialties, a Louisiana corporation; Allied Healthcare Products, Inc.; Chemetron Corporation; Allegheny Industries, Inc.; ABC Corporation; and DEF Corporation.
The complaint, which seeks a judgment of $3 million for compensatory damages and $15 million in punitive damages plus medical and funeral expenses, was signed by Michael B. Holleman, associate to Boyce Holleman, Gulfport attorney.
The complaint alleges that employees of Medical Specialties, Inc. attempted to install anesthesia equipment in Hancock General Hospital's operating room on May 17 but abandoned the attempt because they did not have the correct oxygen and gas supply hoses.

In the process, according to the complaint, the Medical Specialties employees negligently cross-connected the oxygen and nitrous oxide supply lines of the anesthesia equipment.
As a result, nitrous oxide was conducted through the oxygen supply system and oxygen was conducted through the nitrous oxide supply.
The complaint further alleges that following surgery on May 20, Margaret Amann was given 100 percent nitrous oxide, and that as a result of the administration of the nitrous oxide and resulting complete lack of oxygen, she suffered anoxia or hypoxia, causing severe irreversible brain damage.
Margaret Amann died May 25. She was 32.
Another patient, Elizabeth Henderson Latour, 74, died May 20 during surgery at Hancock General Hospital.
An investigation of the two incidents was made by Hancock County Sheriff's Office investigator Alvin Ladner, Mississippi Highway Patrol investigators Joe Price and David Brooks and Bay St. Louis police chief.
When the investigation was initiated a prepared statement released to the press from Hancock General Hospital by HGH Administrator Phil Langston said that "the exact cause (of Latour's death and Amann's injury) is under investigation but appears possibly to be related to anesthesia equipment."

Hancock County Sheriff Ronnie Peterson said yesterday that hospital officials requested the investigation to determine if there was any criminal activity connected with the incidents.
Although the investigation has never been officially closed, Peterson said, there was no indication of criminal acts involved.
According to the complaint, Joseph H. Nodurt, M.D. of Bay St. Louis was responsible for the supervision, administration and control of all anesthesia services administered to Margaret Amann and Debra Rucker was the assisting registered nurse anesthetist.
The complaint notes that Allied Health Care Products and Allegheny Industries are "foreign corporations not qualified to do business in Mississippi but doing business in Mississippi and, alternatively, said corporations have committed a tort...against a resident of Mississippi."
The complaint also states that ABC Corporation and DEF Corporation are manufacturers and distributors of tubing whose exact identities cannot be ascertained at this time.
Plaintiffs reserve the right to amend the complaint when these defendants' identities are ascertained, the complaint states.

Defendants Allied Healthcare Products, Chemetron Corporation and Allegheny Industries, according to the complaint, were the designers, manufacturers, inspectors and sellers of the quick-connect couplers used in the nitrous oxide supply line and the oxygen supply line.
Defendant ABC Corporation allegedly designed and manufactured and Defendant DEF Corporation allegedly distributed supply line tubing to Hancock General Hospital.
Count I of the complaint charges all nine defendants with negligence.
Count II charges breach of implied warranties by Defendants Allied Healthcare Products, Chemetron Corporation, Allegheny Industries, ABC Corporation and DEF Corporation.
Count III charges the defendants Allied Healthcare Products, Chemetron Corporation, Allegheny Industries, ABC Corporation and DEF Corporation with liability for "defective and unreasonably dangerous products."
The complaint asks for compensation for damages from:
—Loss of society and companionship of Margaret Amann to her husband and minor children;
—Present net cash value at the time of death of Margaret Amann's life expectancy;
—Physical and mental pain and suffering endured by Margaret Amann prior to her death;
—Medical expenses incurred prior to Margaret Amann's death; and —Funeral expenses incurred by the estate.
The complaint notes that Allied Health Care Products and Allegheny Industries are "foreign corporations not qualified to do business in Mississippi but doing business in Mississippi and, alternatively, said corporations have committed a tort...against a resident of Mississippi."
The complaint also states that ABC Corporation and DEF Corporation are manufacturers and distributors of tubing whose exact identities cannot be ascertained at this time.
Plaintiffs reserve the right to amend the complaint when these defendants' identities are ascertained, the complaint states.

Three-year term OK'd for Bay superintendent

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
The Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District Board of Trustees said Merry Christmas Monday night to J.D. McCullough, superintendent of education, by approving a renewal of his contract for three more years.
In recent years the board has approved one-year contract renewals for McCullough.
The contract topic was not listed on the board's meeting agenda, but at the end of the Monday night regular meeting a motion for the agreement was offered by Trustee Cyril Glover.
Trustee Betty Diboil seconded the motion on which they and Trustee Reginald Robinson voted affirmatively. Trustee James Ginn cast the only opposing vote and Walter Turcotte said as board president and chairman of the meeting, he does not vote except in break tie votes.
Turcotte reported he planned to bring up the contract renewal matter "next year" and was surprised by Glover's motion.
Glover stated, "My reasoning was with all we have ahead of us, he (McCullough) has to make decisions now for the next three or four years."
"We need someone to stay with us and who has expertise to deal with our problems," he said.
Glover referred to McCullough's presentation just before the contract renewal motion in which the superintendent explained the district's responsibility to provide classrooms for kindergarten classes by 1986 as required by the State Education Reform Act and the probable consolidation of local school districts as also called for in the act.
In addition, Glover noted the superintendent has proposed a local bond issue referendum to build another elementary school to serve students from the Shoreline Park area to help alleviate overcrowding in district schools.
"After reading all this stuff, I say that we better keep this man. We need a man with some ability. He has done a good job and will continue to do so," Glover stated.
McCullough said the board, based on state law, can renew his contract up to four years and that during his 25-year career as Bay superintendent, he has received contracts ranging from one to four years.
He reported the three-year renewal approved Monday night will begin on July 1.
McCullough said the law also requires superintendent contracts to be renewed by Jan. 15, about six months prior to the expiration of an existing agreement.
When McCullough was asked if he planned to retire after his approved contract expires, he replied, "I will consider it."

'Tis the season to be jolly.

Joanne had a dozen presents to wrap, at least three more to buy, her parents were coming, she hadn't done the grocery shopping. —or started her holiday baking. She cried. And cried. The Christmas Blues—its cause and prevention. We've all suffered from holiday depression to some degree. It's the season of memories, reflection—and often loneliness. But this year, with some precautions, you can turn a blue Christmas into a merry one.

Plan ahead. Have each gift in mind before you go shopping. Beat the crowd. Don't overspend. And don't wait until the last minute to clean house. Let the family help. Assign errands and duties to family members. Share responsibility. Be realistic. If you have guests, don't think you have to cook every day. 'Tis also the season for cold cuts and "fast foods." Reach out. If you think you're going to be alone—again—don't be embarrassed to let people know. If you don't get invited out, take the first step and reach out to others.

Be nice to yourself. This is not the time for self-evaluation. Save that for when pressures are fewer. Get help if needed. If holiday depression lasts beyond several weeks, talk with someone—a friend or professional. People do care. They will help. Don't ever doubt—you can turn "Bah Humbug" into "Merry Christmas."

Commission postpones approval on zoning change

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT
Lacking any protest from local residents, the Bay St. Louis Planning and Zoning Commission next week may approve a zoning change request for land located near Bay St. Louis High School.

Property owner W.E. Breland is requesting a change from R-1 to R-3 zoning.

Prospective buyer Sam V. Morse of Pass Christian, general partner of Blue Meadow Associates, Ltd., plans to construct five eight-unit, two-story brick garden apartments on the property for moderate-income housing, he told commission members Tuesday evening.

The complex, to be known as Blue Meadow Apartments, will also include a building for offices and laundry facilities, he said.

Morse also owns the Pine Crest

Manor apartments in Waveland.

The apartments will include 32 two-bedroom units with rent starting at $165 per month, and eight one-bedroom apartments with rent starting at $190 per month.

The $1,182,000 project with a 50-year payback will be funded through Farmers Home Administration, according to Jack McConahey of South Bay Builders, Inc. of Biloxi, contractor.

Architect is Max Harris of Jackson. If the project is approved, construction will begin in about six months.

Asked by commission member Wilson Webb if Farmers Home projects are "competing" with each other, McConahey said it is his understanding that more than one Farmers Home project will be funded in this area.

"From my conversations with Farmers Home," he said, "it is my understanding that they will be funding immediately—within the next 60-90 days."

Because of funding schedules, the petitioners asked for zoning change approval Tuesday, but the commission members questioned several potential problems.

Commission Chairman C.C. McDonald said he doubted that Farmers Home Administration would approve the planned access road.

"Farmers Home will not approve any road less than 40 feet wide, including right of way," he said.

The proposed strip of land to be used as an access road narrows from 40 feet to 25 feet.

There were also discrepancies in documents describing the land, which is east of Blue Meadow Road and north of US-90 and apparently is part of Section 25 of the Bouquie claim.

McDonald said that the legal description must be corrected and the question about the access road answered either by a letter from Farmers Home expressing satisfaction with the present plans or by easements from other land owners.

Commission members agreed that if these problems are resolved, they will meet again next Tuesday to approve the zoning change so that it may be submitted to the Bay St. Louis Council the same evening.

Waveland Legion post, Gulfview class answer serviceman's request for American flag

A human-interest story unfolded last week when a phone call was made to the commander of American Legion Post No. 77.

The call, relayed by the post chaplain, George Wilhelm, was from Mrs. Gaynell

Roberts and was a simple request for an American flag.

Mrs. Roberts fourth grade class at Lakeshore School had adopted a local serviceman serving overseas to write to and ease the pains of loneliness in a foreign country.

The serviceman is PFC Robert K. Koller of the 82nd Airborne Engineers Battalion who was sent to Grenada on the second day of the U.S. involvement there.

In one of his letters Koller stated that he would like to have an American flag to hang in his barracks in Grenada for patriotic reasons.

The class, through their teacher Mrs. Roberts, contacted the American Legion and the presentation was made.

At the presentation of the flag at Lakeshore School, Mrs. Koller showed those present Russian-made souvenirs acquired by her son on Grenada.

Dear Santa:

I have not been good all year. In fact, I have lost my temper several times, and do not deserve a gift.

However, I would ask you, please, to remember those deserving people who pick up our garbage and trash—rain or shine, hot or cold, and go beyond their line of duty to pick up garbage dogs have scattered.

Would you give the owners of these dogs each a leash so that they can comply with city ordinances?

Please leave switches - I mean cat o' nine tails - in the stockings of those business establishments that are responsible for all that clutter in our ditches, on our side walks - and flowing into our property? It is embarrassing to be a part of that scene.

I doubt that you will do it. You are so kind and good and understanding.

But maybe, if you placed a little litter bag in their automobiles they would use it for refuse, carry home the trash or put it in public containers placed conveniently for that purpose.

Perhaps for those who have committed a crime, a little printed notice might be sent out saying: "Go your way...and sin some more."

Joe Pilet
P. S. I probably won't be good next year. I have been accused of being "a caring citizen."

Employment Service reports funding available for Emergency Veterans Job Training Act

Harold M. Hooper, manager of the Gulfport office of the Mississippi State Employment Service, reports funding is available for the Emergency Veterans Job Training Act of 1963 signed by President Reagan on August 15, which provides for the Federal Government to reimburse employers for up to one-half of the starting wage for training or retraining veterans of the Vietnam era or the Korean Conflict.

The law underscores the nation's special commitment to those who served in the military and is designed to help both the employer and the veteran, Hooper stated.

Employers may apply to the Veterans Administration Regional Office or the nearest State Employment Service Office to obtain information on certification procedures. An employer can receive from the government, 50 percent of the veteran's starting salary during the training program up to a maximum of $10,000 per veteran.

Reimbursement to the employer will be made at the end of each three-month period of training or can be made monthly in the case of employers with a workforce of less than 75 employees.

An employer wishing to participate in the program certifies his or her intention to employ an approved veteran on a permanent basis after the training is completed.

The employer must certify that the wages and benefits paid to the veteran will be comparable to those normally paid to employees in training and that no current employees will be displaced.

The training program designed should generally be no less than six months, except that a program of between three and six months could be approved under certain circumstances.

The program must offer training in:

- an occupation in a growth industry; or
- an occupation requiring new technical skills; or
- an occupation for which demand for labor exceeds the supply.

However, training cannot be for jobs which:

- are seasonal or temporary;
- have incomes paid by commissions;
- involve political or religious activity; or
- are with the Federal Government.

Vietnam-era or Korean Conflict Veterans who have been unemployed 15 out of the 20 weeks prior to application may apply to the Veterans Administration Regional Office or the nearest State Employment Service Office to obtain information on certification procedures.

The maximum period of training depends on the status of the individual veteran:

- 15 months for veterans with 30% or more service-connected disability;
- 15 months for those with

10% or 20% disability and a serious employment handicap; —9 months for other eligible veterans

Veterans receiving education or training benefits under the GI Bill or post-Vietnam educational assistance cannot receive educational assistance while participating under the Emergency Veterans Job Training Act.

Sweet Adelines enroll seven

At the Board of Directors meeting of the prospective Mississippi Coast Chapter, Sweet Adelines, Inc., on Tuesday, Dec. 13, seven applicants were accepted for membership. The new chapter is being led by Dorothy Weritz (tenor), Doris Dodson (lead), Suzanne Hillman (baritone) and Judy Johnson (baritone).

The chapter's Christmas party was held on Tuesday, Dec. 13 in the Officers Club at the Seabee Base in Gulfport. The ladies entertained their husbands and guests with a selection of Christmas songs.

As a very special treat the Port City Sound, a quartet, second place regional winners, from the Mobile Chapter, was on hand with their director Mrs. Bron Dixon.

Their performance was the highlight of the gathering. Some of the ladies from the Mississippi Coast Chapter and their director, William Haynie, are making plans to attend an educational school in Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 27-29.

This school will be conducted by "The Hallmarks," 1979 Queens of Harmony, who are the International Competition winners.

The hostess chapter for the school is the "Southern Accent Chapter" from Montgomery, Ala.

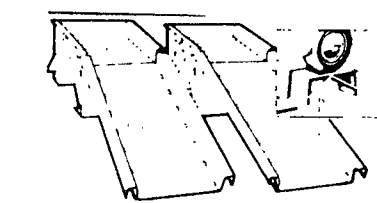

For information regarding membership in the Mississippi Coast Chapter contact Marge Darling at 255-1583 or Maggie Musgrove at 863-5278.

ETV Brief

Actor Roger Durrett presents his one-man show, "An Evening with Mark Twain," at 10 p.m., Sunday, Dec. 26 on the Mississippi ETV Network.

In the Christmas evening special, Durrett shares the talent and adventures of Samuel Clemens by taking viewers back in history and recreating the spirit of the legendary writer and his times. Durrett's performance reflects his years of studying Mark Twain, researching his writings, sayings, mannerisms—even his wrinkles.

The wrinkles, Mark Twain once said, "only come to show where the smiles have been."

'Stop And Go' income tax strategy explained

There is not much time left for 1983 tax planning. But there are a few strategic moves that could put the taxpayer in a better tax position for 1983 and 1984.

Remember, 1984 will bring another reduction in tax rates. The drop will come from the 1981 tax cut in effect the entire year of 1984. This year the benefits of "stop and go" tactics can be more advantageous than ever.

"Stop and go" tactics take advantage of flexible cash receipts and disbursements. They speed up or delay income and deductible expenses so that the timing meets the taxpayer's needs.

Since 1984 brings with it declining tax rates, it will probably be an advantage to delay income and speed up deductible expenses this year. There is still some time left to do this in 1983.

Of course, those who don't exceed the zero bracket amount or standard deduction this year (3,400 on a joint return and $2,300 on an individual return), but might in 1984, should delay flexible deductions until then.

What income and expenses can be postponed or expedited to your advantage? Income for those who do bill for their labor can be deferred by delaying billings. A year-end bonus might be delayed until January.

Deductions that might be hastened for use in 1983 include medical expenses, some state and property taxes, charitable contributions, business expenses, union and professional dues, and subscriptions to professional magazines.

When speeding up medical and dental expenses, remember that only expenses in excess of 5 percent of adjusted gross income can be deducted.

A tax credit which might be worth considering for the end of 1983 is energy-saving home improvements. Last-minute tax shelters should be viewed with caution. They usually are not good investments and give the IRS good reason to check into your taxes.

Two of the best tax-break tactics around are Individual Retirement Accounts and Keogh plans. You can open or add to an IRA until the date you file your 1983 return. Contributions up to $2,000 for individuals and $2,500 per couple are deductible from 1983 income.

Keogh plans, for the self-employed, must be opened before January 1 to deduct contributions in 1983. Once the Keogh is opened, contributions can be added until the 1983 return is filed and still qualify as 1983 deductions. Up to 15 percent of self-employment income can be used to a maximum of $15,000.

Tax planning should not be a last-minute activity. But for those of us who have not done quite enough prior planning, it could still be profitable to do some year-end calculating on tax maneuvers.

All Mississippi drivers to hold four-year licenses

December 31, 1983 marks the final day a two-year driver license will be issued in Mississippi.

Capt. Sam Richardson, director of driver license examining for the Department of Public Safety, said only the four-year color photo license will be issued in Mississippi beginning Jan. 1, 1984.

"Anyone whose driver license expires after the new year begins must visit one of the 83 examining stations in the state to have it renewed."

All driver licenses issued after Jan. 1 will be valid for four years and contain a color picture of its owner which will be taken at the examining station by our testing personnel," Richardson said.

He advises that anyone applying for a driver license for the first time should take their birth certificate and Social Security card with them for the testing personnel to see. By the end of 1985 only those Mississippi license bearing a color photo of its owner will be valid.

During the past two years since the color photo driver license law has been in effect, approximately 860,000 four-year licenses have been issued.

Richardson said the four-year color photo regular license costs $13. Four-year color photo commercial licenses are $21. He said a check, money order or cash will be accepted by driver license examiners and testing clerks at the time of issuance or renewal of a license.

MEZZO-SOPRANO
"Live from Lincoln Center" presents "Marilyn Horne's Great American Songbook" at 8:30 p.m., Wednesday, Dec. 28 on the Mississippi ETV Network.

Miss Horne, considered by many critics to be America's greatest living mezzo-soprano, will be accompanied in concert by the American Symphony Orchestra under the baton of Leonard Slatkin, music director of the St. Louis Symphony.

All of the music on the program has been selected by Miss Horne to celebrate American composers and includes songs by Aaron Copland, Stephen Foster and Jerome Kern, as well as hymns and spirituals, patriotic and folk songs and well-known ballads from the American musical theater.

The "Live from Lincoln Center" telecast is one of many celebrations for Miss Horne this year and marks the 30th anniversary of her opera debut, her 50th birthday on Jan. 16 and the publication of her autobiography.

This program will be rebroadcast at 2 p.m., Saturday, Dec. 31 on ETV.

divorced or separated couples share equal responsibilities for rearing their children at 9 p.m., Tuesday, Dec. 27 on the Mississippi ETV Network.

With all of the additional responsibilities and logistical problems inherent in co-parenting, however, all three families agree that equal custody meets their needs.

One of the men involved speaks for all of the couples represented in the documentary when he says that in traditional divorces, "men are forced to walk away from their role as fathers. Society thinks children need their mother, but children need the parents equally."

The film provides insights into the rewards and hardships of co-parenting and shows how society and the legal profession often resist this unconventional approach.

VIVALDI CONCERT

"Great Performances" on ETV presents Vivaldi's "The Four Seasons," performed by violin virtuoso Gidon Kremer, who also conducts the English Chamber Orchestra.

Counselors to channel efforts toward aiding new businesses

Business counseling is expected to be directed more toward new business starts in 1984, according to Service Corps of Retired Executives (SCORE) president, Stone Smith of Biloxi.

Speaking at the SCORE annual dinner meeting held at the Best Western Biloxi Inn this month, Smith said, "Counseling during 1983 dealt mostly with the recession problems of small business, but in 1984 we expect more requests on starting a new business."

He further commented that, "counseling is most effective when the counselor participates at the planning stage. Since 1972, when a SCORE Chapter was established on the Coast, many successful new businesses have been formed and many existing businesses were able to avoid serious management mistakes as a result of SCORE assistance."

Smith also pointed out that SCORE has about 9,000 members nationwide from 370 chapters. Although they work closely with and are sponsored by the U.S. Small Business Administration, it is not necessary for a business to have an SBA loan to be eligible for SCORE's free, confidential services.

In addition to Smith, who was reelected president, new officers for 1984 include: Fritz Lindley of Gulfport, vice president; Charles L. Munroe of Ocean Springs, treasurer; and James H. Woodbury of Gulfport, secretary. Ed Craig of Pass Christian was master of ceremonies and Larry Abrams of Diamondhead presented Smith with a gift for his past year service. The new president was inducted by Bob Drigert of Long Beach, a past president and founder of the local chapter.

Helen Hall from the SBA Jackson District Office presented service awards to Bob Lohmeyer of Norwood; Sid Wogan and Frank Bryan of Ocean Springs; Walter P. Brown and Ed Benson of Biloxi.

Lindley discussed the need to increase membership to meet the growing demand for counseling.

Retired executives who are willing and able to provide volunteer business counseling can get in touch with the group by calling 435-4878 (Biloxi Branch of SBA). He reminded the group that executives still in business who are interested in helping the small business community are invited to join the Active Corps of Executives (ACE), a division of SCORE.

situation is now closing Bayou Cadet Shell and Fish.

"The only thing I feel bad about is that 15 people are out of work and probably they won't have a Christmas this year. I'm out of work too and won't have a Christmas either," Ingersoll stated.

Ingersoll said his operation represents a $30,000 investment which added more than $250,000 to the local economy.

In addition, Everett feels Ingersoll is complying with the law more than May because the shell and fish company has a large refrigeration unit.

Everett charged that May has no hot water, public restrooms which are closed, inadequate refrigeration facilities and has left sacks of oysters unrefrigerated on the docks for excessive periods of time.

In addition, he said Ladner, who told the commission he no longer has a permit to deal oysters, is operating as a dealer at Bayou Cadet.

Everett also said Taconi has allowed May to violate permit requirements more than others.

Taconi said Tuesday that May was issued a permit in October and at that time had installed a restroom with hot and cold water.

He noted the county-built concession May leases only had cold water plumbing in public men and women's restrooms in the rear of the building which had been abused and were not operating.

May then renovated the restrooms and built another with hot and cold water plumbing, Taconi said.

He said May didn't comply with the letter of the law, but the spirit of the law by installing a hot and cold water wash basin and the county provided facilities which at the time of construction were legal.

"People are accusing us of being discriminatory, but this goes back to traditional methods they get used to and then they are caught in the middle of changes in our regulations," Taconi stated.

"It probably seems unfair in his mind," Taconi added.

He said the health department had no control over the commission's leasing of the property because the county owns the land, not the state.

Taconi also reported that May and Ladner have formed a partnership which allows Ladner to act as a dealer under May's shell stock permit.

The shellfish sanitation specialist said the state now requires water wells to be drilled at least 100 feet away from the uphill side from a sewage plant.

He said the reason for the requirement is because in the event of a sewage plant failure or flooding a nearby well could be polluted by the sewage moving down the well casing.

Taconi noted the present sewage plant is about 15 feet from the well.

"We're dealing here with a county entity as owner and when the concession facility was constructed the well and sewage plant met state requirements," he stated.

He noted that due to the small amount of the county property the state will not allow a new well to be drilled anywhere within its boundaries or expanded use of the present well.

He said the well's purity is monitored monthly by the health department and the Waveland Regional Wastewater Management District checks the sewage plant daily to insure its proper operation.

Taconi reported the entire Bayou Cadet area needs modern public sewage and water systems since the dock is in a swamp area.

He said the department must regulate the sale of oysters, which is a food, in the best interest of the public and the fishing industry.

"The only alternative to this situation would be not to allow any oysters to be brought in at Bayou Cadet at all," Taconi stated.

"We have to regulate the need for basic sanitation. We're not trying to be a police agency, just preserve public health," he also stated.

Ingersoll feels the county needs to build a harbor allowing larger boats to dock at Bayou Cadet which would adequately support an ice and fuel business.

DeBlanc agrees, but reports the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers is requiring such expansion to be in the form of an approximate $2 million harbor facility funded entirely by Hancock.

But the financially strapped county cannot afford the harbor facility and a recent U.S. Department of Commerce Economic Development Agency grant request for the project was turned down because the federal government determined the Cadet project would not provide additional permanent jobs, DeBlanc explained.

"Hopefully, somewhere down the line we'll get the money for the project," he added.

time as long as my health holds out and as long as I can be of service to the school district.

Regarding the board's action, the superintendent stated, "That's about the best Christmas present I'll ever get."

The board also approved a recommendation by McCullough to purchase two new portable classroom buildings at a cost of $20,000 each to replace deteriorating ones at North Bay Elementary School.

He said the existing structures now serve as a music room, teachers' lounge and storage area, but in the future would be utilized as classrooms.

The superintendent reported the portable buildings could be installed by the end of the present school year.

Earlier at the meeting, the superintendent reported first grade classes at North Bay are overcrowded as well as the third grade at Waveland Elementary School.

The present two buildings are beyond repair, McCullough reported.

Ginn, who in the past has opposed the district purchasing any more portable buildings, asked how much money the district has available to build new permanent classrooms which would cost about $50,000 each.

Garland Cuevas, district business manager, reported $100,000 could be obtained.

McCullough said the district must retain from $40,000 to $50,000 for emergencies.

Ginn suggested that the district also construct two new classrooms at Waveland Elementary which could be ready for students by September.

McCullough noted Fred Wagner, district architect, is formulating plans for a districtwide building program funded by a bond issue.

"We are obligated and we've got to make some moves. My plan is to recommend such moves when the board thinks it is a good time to make such moves," he stated.

Glover offered the motion to advertise the district's intent to purchase the portable buildings. Robinson seconded the move and the board approved it.

SCHOLARSHIP

Lucia Jorge, a graduate student in pharmacy at the University of Mississippi, was selected to receive one of two national Rho Chi Graduate Scholarships.

Rho Chi is the national honor society for pharmacy. Recipients of the $1,000 award are selected on the basis of demonstrated potential for success in a graduate program and on letters of recommendation from faculty members.

Jorge, who received the bachelor of science in pharmacy degree from the University of Panama, is enrolled in the master of science program in medicinal chemistry at Ole Miss.

She is performing her research in the area of drug metabolism, particularly the metabolism of primaquine, an anti-malaria agent. Jorge is doing her research under the direction of Dr. John K. Baker, UM professor of medicinal chemistry.

She also is studying at Ole Miss on a Fulbright Travel Grant from the International Institute of Education.

POINT OF LAW

Mississippi State Bar

(Prepared by the Mississippi State Bar. Some legal rights may vary from locality to locality. Always consult an attorney when in doubt about your rights.)

Q: My husband was ordered by the court to pay his ex-wife $300 per month for child support. Now he has been laid off from his job and can't afford to pay her. What should we do? Can his ex-wife have him put in jail for not being able to pay?

A: Under Mississippi law, your husband's duty to pay child support continues unchanged until the court that ordered the amount of child support changes its order. He should immediately file papers in court to have his child support reduced or suspended until he can return to work.

If he does not do so, his ex-wife may file suit against him asking the court to find him in contempt for not paying. The court will give her a judgment for all due and unpaid support, and may impose a fine and a jail term on your husband.

He may also be ordered to pay all court costs and his ex-wife's attorney's fees. Time is important in this situation, and your husband should contact an attorney right away.

Q: I have had to go to court or contact a lawyer for back child support four times in the last three or four years. My ex-husband says he does not have to pay because our daughter spent most of the summer with our relatives. He is now three months behind in payments. Can he get away with this?

A: Unless the support order makes a specific provision for suspending the child support payments when the child is not in your physical custody, your ex-husband must make the support payments even when your daughter, was staying with the relatives.

MSA sweepstakes to tempt new members

Farmers who join the Mississippi Soybean Association (MSA) before June 15, 1984 have a chance to win a $26,000 tractor in a 'first of its kind' sweepstakes announced recently by the association.

The tractor is one of several prizes being awarded in the membership sweepstakes sponsored by ICI Americas Inc., Makers of Fusilade T.M. herbicide.

"The Fusilade T.M. 'Over the Top' Soybean Association Sweepstakes is designed to inform farmers about association activities and attract new members," said Robert Mashburn of Bolton, MSA President.

"The grand prize of a Massey Ferguson tractor, valued at more than $26,000, is open to all participants. Other prizes are awarded to soybean association members for signing new members."

"The total value of the sweepstakes' prizes is limited only by the number of new members who join," he said.

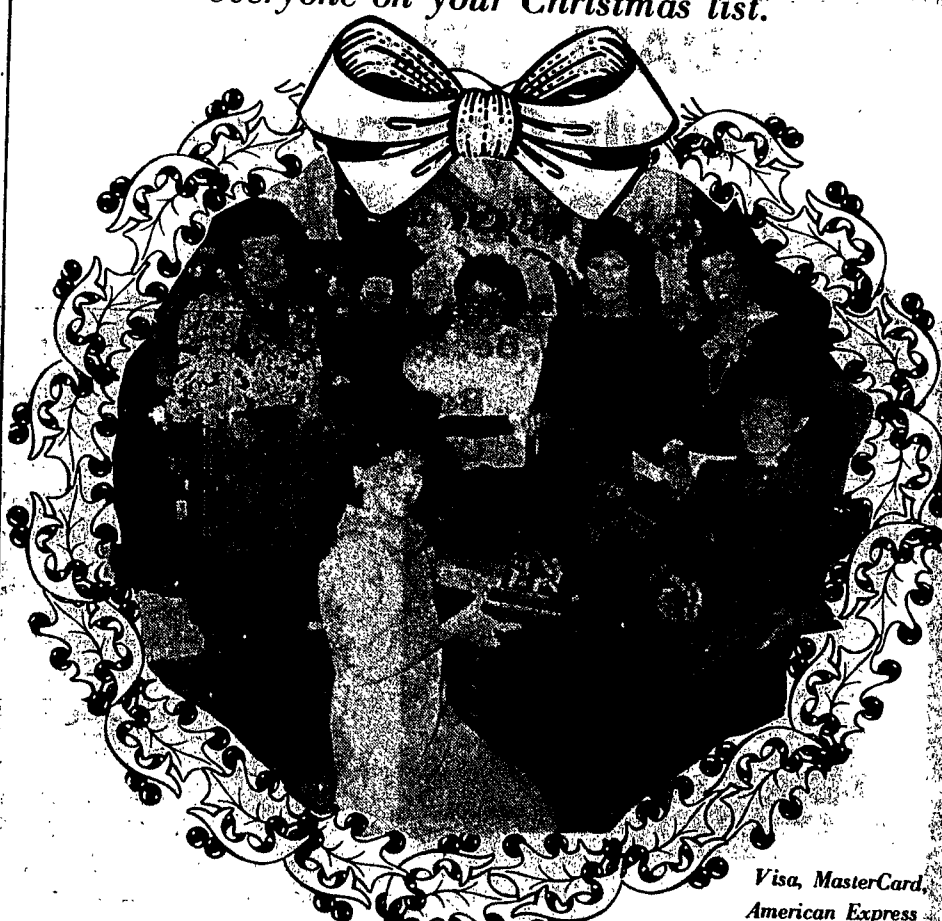

According to Mashburn, no member dues or checkoff income is allocated to the membership sweepstakes, which is entirely underwritten by ICI Americas Inc. and other corporate sponsors.

The Fusilade T.M. 'Over the Top' Soybean Association Sweepstakes is open to individuals 18 years or older who are involved in soybean production. The sweepstakes ends June 15, 1984.

Additional information is available from American Soybean Assn., Box 27300, St. Louis, Mo. 63141.

CHRISTMAS CAROLING—Children of the Waveland Ward, Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints assemble at the corner of DeMontfuzin and North Second Streets in Bay St. Louis before starting out on a recent evening of Christmas

Caroling on DeMontfuzin Street. The group concluded the excursion with an appearance at the Reed Hotel Nursing Home on Ulman Avenue at Beach Boulevard. (Echo staff photo by Edgar Perez)

Humane group urges care in giving pets as gifts

The Harrison County Humane Society suggests giving pets for Christmas gifts only if certain guidelines are followed.

"The humane society could write pages on all the things to be considered if you are giving a pet as a Christmas gift. To make a long story short, we would like to remind anyone contemplating the gift of a pet for Christmas to consider these points," said Eileen Loper, director.

"Puppies and kittens should never be given with the sole purpose in mind to teach a child responsibility. The child should show that he is emotionally responsible and ready for a pet before a life is entrusted to him.

—Remember that adult pets also make better gifts sometimes for very small children, and also are welcome additions to adult families or working couples.

—Be sure this pet is welcomed in its new home, and that the new owners can accept the financial responsibility of properly caring for this pet and being responsible pet owners.

—If shopping for a pet as a Christmas gift, do it early, and give the gift early. The holiday will be much happier for the pet and the family if it has time to get adjusted before the busy time of Christmas Day.

—Encourage friends who are shopping for pets to visit humane society facilities.

"We have a terrific selection to choose from every day. Unless a person is looking for a pure-bred animal to show, we feel the mixed breed pet in most cases makes a better pet, and are often not so nervous," Loper added.

—The Christmas spirit will touch many hearts if an unwanted pet is adopted into a good home.

The Humane Society also offers these holiday warnings for the safety of pets:

1. The fat soaked trussing cord of a turkey has been known to become entangled in the intestines of pets. Wrap these cords and aluminum foil soaked with meat juices very carefully so that they cannot be dug out of the garbage and digested by animals. Surgery may be the only answer to saving a pet from these items.

2. If a pet gnaws on a string of tree lights, a 110-volt jolt can be lethal.

3. Remember it only takes a second for a puppy or kitten to choke on gift wrap ribbon, or strangled by a small Christmas ball lodged in its throat.

4. Along with tinsel, toys, and tassels, be sure a pet does not eat a single leaf of the Christmas poinsettia. It could be lethal to the pet.

Also, mistletoe is such a toxic plant that it can take the life of a young pet within a few hours after ingestion.

5. The secret of surviving the holidays without harm to a pet is supervision.

IN TIME FOR CHRISTMAS—Gary Hollingsworth, Bay St. Louis, is the winner of a ten-speed bicycle in a contest sponsored by the Jitney Jungle store at MarkeTown Shopping Center. The store has several other prizes to give away before Christmas, including a go-cart and giant Christmas stocking filled with candy.

The Hancock County Forester's office is relocated from the county courthouse to the former County Home building on Dunbar Avenue in Bay St. Louis behind Hancock General Hospital.

Regular office hours are from 8 a.m. to noon Monday through Friday. The office will be closed Friday, Dec. 23 through Monday, Dec. 26 and will reopen Tuesday, Dec. 27 and maintain regular hours through noon Friday, Dec. 30.

The office will close again for the New Year's holiday on Monday, Jan. 2.

Now's the time to plan winter and spring prescribed burns.

Prescribed burning is a popular landowner service offered by the Mississippi Forestry Commission, and it is usually handled on a first-come-first-served basis.

Most prescribed burns are done during the winter under a stand of timber. Areas cleared for regeneration can be burned during the summer or fall.

The reasons for prescribed burning are many: To kill unwanted hardwood saplings taking up room in pine stands; to remove fuel under controlled conditions to lessen the possibility of a destructive wildfire; and to encourage the growth of tender shoots and grasses favored by wildlife, just to name a few.

We have trained people available to help you with your prescribed burning. They can determine if burning will be beneficial in any of your stands, help with planning and layout, constructing the burning for you. There is a reasonable charge for plowing firebreaks and performing the burn.

If you have an area that you'd like for us to take a look at for possible prescribed burning get in touch with us at our office, 467-4728 or tower, 255-7152.

New Orleans Ronald McDonald House to serve Mississippi cancer families

Children's Oncology Services of Louisiana this month opened the doors of the New Orleans Ronald McDonald House, a home-away-from-home for families with children suffering from leukemia and other cancer-related illnesses.

Located at 4403 Canal Street, the Ronald McDonald House will provide lodging to hundreds of families from throughout Louisiana and Mississippi who bring children to New Orleans for pediatric cancer treatment.

By offering a warm, comfortable, caring place to stay, the House allows children to receive sophisticated medical attention with a minimum of disruption to family life.

"Comfort and joy are the two main ingredients of the home-away-from-home that the Ronald McDonald House truly is," COSLA President Willie H. LaNasa told more than 100 guests at a grand opening ceremony.

"Our many dedicated supporters will never know how thankful our families will be to have a home in which to live while their children undergo treatment in New Orleans," he said.

LaNasa added that the slogan — "the house that love built" — used by Ronald McDonald Houses nationwide "more than aptly describes our House in New Orleans."

Ken Gies, founder of COSLA, an organization comprised largely of parents whose children have or have had cancer, expressed his appreciation for the support of the community during the COSLA's four-year labor of love.

"We've waited four long years for this day to arrive," he said. "Thanks to the wonderful support from corporations, organizations and individuals alike, our dream is now reality."

COSLA raised approximately $500,000 to open the House. Fundraising will continue to keep the House operational.

Local McDonald's restaurant owners and operators, the Ray Kroc Foundation, New Orleans Saints, Crescent Distributing Co. and the League of St. Jude have been the largest contributors. The Problem

Hundreds of children are brought to New Orleans every year to undergo treatment of cancer and other life threatening illnesses. Travelling from distances of 300 miles and more, the parents of these unfortunate children are often forced to sleep in cars, waiting room couches, or on the floor of their child's hospital room.

These most uncomfortable nights, sometimes stretching into a month or more, are not because of a lack of hotel space in our city, but rather because of lack of funds and the need for the parent to be close to the child. The cost of treating cancer and other serious illnesses is understandably high and many parents cannot afford to pay for a hotel room.

The trauma of a seriously ill child is staggering not only to the child's parents but to the entire family. A mother will frequently travel to New Orleans leaving her husband and other children at home, sometimes for months at a time. In many cases, weekends provide the only opportunity for family members at home to travel to New Orleans to visit sibling and parent.

The Solution
The New Orleans Ronald McDonald House is a warm, caring, comfortable home for these families. Here parent and child can maintain some semblance of family life. More important, families staying together in the House land one another the emotional support necessary during the most traumatic and lonely time of their lives.

Parents whose children have cancer need others to listen and care. They can't find such support in hotels and hospital waiting rooms. The solution is their home-away-from-home, the New Orleans Ronald McDonald House.

The stately 100-year old house is surrounded by huge trees which supply shade and tranquility. The house offers a relaxed atmosphere where families can live while their children receive treatment at nearby hospitals.

Approximately 16 families will be able to live in the New Orleans Ronald McDonald House at one time. Initially, families will be referred to the house by hospital social workers. After their first visit, families can make reservations whenever necessary.

Bright and cheerful, the 11,000 square foot house contains 16 bedrooms, 8 bathrooms, a large double kitchen and dining area, several family and play rooms and two laundry areas. An elevator aids families in moving from one floor to another.

Special areas have been designated for certain age groups, such as a playroom for children and study for older children and parents.

Families using the house will do their own cooking and be responsible for maintaining their bedrooms and bathroom. Other housekeeping chores will be undertaken by volunteers.

John and Mary Heaton, a young couple from New Orleans, live in a two-bedroom apartment on the first floor, and serve as house managers. John, a medical student at Louisiana State University, and his wife are the only paid employees.

The Ronald McDonald House received the support of many civic-minded groups during efforts to raise funds to purchase and renovate the home.

Instrumental in developing the project was McDonald's Corporation, which gave the Ronald McDonald name to the nationwide program.

Ronald, the familiar clown, is a symbol of fun and happiness for children. In addition, New Orleans area McDonald's owners and operators pledged $175,000 over a five-year period. The Ray A. Kroc foundation contributed $25,000 at the onset of the project.

Help has come from many other sources, notably the

New Orleans Saints. The Saints have adopted the Ronald McDonald House as one of their main charities. The Saints' wives have been particularly active, sponsoring a fashion show and other fund-raising events.

The idea for the Ronald McDonald House originated nearly a decade ago in Philadelphia, when the three-year old daughter of then-

Philadelphia Eagles football player Fred Hill was stricken with leukemia.

Hill and his family saw the hardships experienced by other families of seriously ill children. Some were sleeping on floors, in hospital corridors, in their cars. Hill asked his teammates for help, a request most enthusiastically received. It led to an association with McDonald's in 1974.

Chicago was the next city to build a Ronald McDonald House, and the idea 'caught fire' in other cities.

The New Orleans House is the 53rd house in cities throughout the world. The houses are sponsored by local oncology organizations, McDonald's, National Football League teams, and major league baseball, hockey and soccer teams.

SERVING MISSISSIPPI CHILDREN—Located just minutes away from area hospitals, the New Orleans Ronald McDonald

House is a home-away-from-home for families of children brought to New Orleans for pediatric cancer treatment.

BOATING TOPICS

MERCURY OUTDOOR CONSULTANT

COMPACT YACHTS

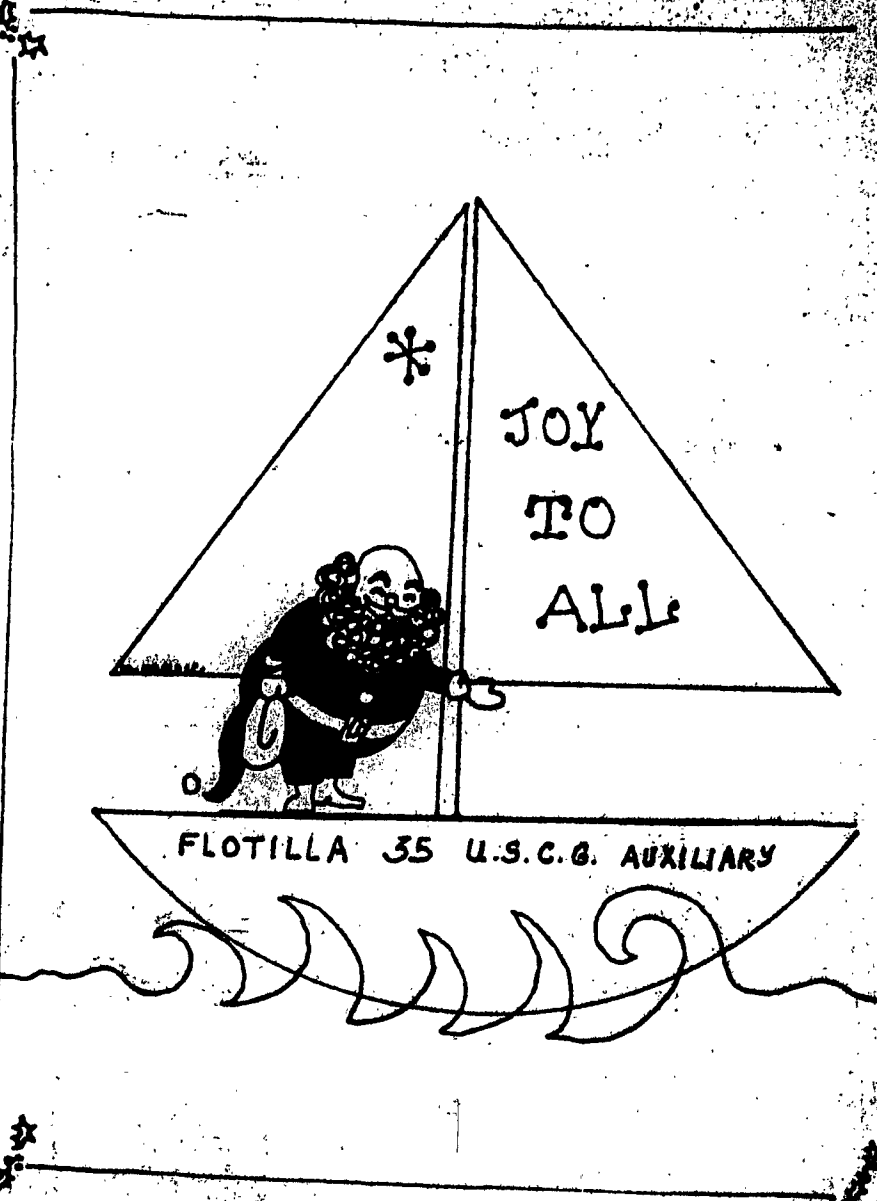

Overheard at a marina recently was a young sailor's remark that he was going to "get my yacht out of the car trunk and I'll be ready to go."

What he actually removed from his compact automobile was a 13-foot-long, nearly five-foot wide inflatable runabout and a 25-horsepower outboard engine. In a few minutes he had inflated the sleek boat, loaded aboard an ice chest, water, skis, a couple of friends and a dog, and was outward bound for a weekend of fun on the water.

This scene is being enacted more frequently these days as Americans continue to downsize their automobiles and buy boats which the smaller cars can transport. Inflatable boats are finding homes with many small car owners, apartment dwellers, and others who need the easily transported, easy-to-store, air-filled craft.

Rubber boats are more than toys, advise Mercury Outboards' boating experts. They are well designed craft made of materials that will last for years with proper care. Puncture or tearing, once thought to be a serious problem, is almost nonexistent today. Tough, resilient synthetic rubber and neoprene fabric forms the air-filled hull. Separate compartments insure flotation even if damage occurs, and you really have to try to make that happen.

Inflatables are fast boats, suitable for all kinds of water recreation. Skiing, cruising, fishing and scuba diving are only a few of the activities to which these boats are adapted.

Wildlife Department lists Dec. 15 as important date

Mid-December is a time for the opening and closing of seasons on many of Mississippi's favorite game species, according to the state Department of Wildlife Conservation.

On Dec. 10 the state's first duck season opened for two days, closing Dec. 11. These were also the same opening and closing dates for the first Canada goose season within the Sardis Reservoir Zone.

The second Canada goose season there began Wednesday, Dec. 14, and continues through Jan. 20.

Dec. 11 also was the end of the second coot season.

Thursday, Dec. 15 will be an important day for waterfowl and deer hunters. The second duck season and the last coot season begin that day and end Jan. 31.

Dec. 15 also marks the beginning of the second statewide season for taking geese other than Canada geese. It ends Jan. 20.

Dec. 15 will be the end of this year's primitive weapons season. However, Friday, Dec. 16 marks the opening of the second regular gun season for buck-only deer without dogs which will continue through Dec. 23.

However, on Dec. 23 hunters will be able to harvest doe deer in addition to bucks, since that day is the date for this year's statewide either-sex hunt which is open in all counties (but including only East and Chickasaw wildlife management areas).

As with the opening and closing of any season, conservation enforcement authorities remind hunters to know the regulations for any wildlife management area or greenbelt reservoir they may hunt on.

Waterfowl hunters should remember to have their shotguns plugged and incapable of holding more than three shells at any one loading.

Duck and goose hunters 16 years of age and older must purchase a $7.50 federal duck stamp. In addition, hunters between 16 and 65 must have a $2 state duck stamp to go with their regular valid hunting license.

Bay-Waveland Tire to face Long Beach in Saturday soccer action

In the opening game of a mini-tournament between Poyune, Gulf Coast Waste and Bay-Waveland Tire, Poyune got off to a fast start and easily handled Bay-Waveland Tire 4-1.

Then Poyune took on Gulf

Coast Waste and fell behind 3-1 before rallying in the second half to apply pressure. However, Gulf Coast held on for a 3-2 win.

In the final Gulf Coast Waste continued to look good as it scored first on a melee in front of the Bay-Waveland Tire net after a corner kick to take a 1-0 halftime lead.

However, Bay-Waveland Tire overtook Gulf Coast Waste midway through the second half as Jimmy Reisch dribbled in from the corner to beat the goalkeeper, and scored the decisive goal with less than five minutes remaining on a beautiful pass to Rich Gleber—the final was 2-1.

This Saturday two teams from Long Beach will play against Bay-Waveland Tire.

USM Researchers develop buoy coat

Researchers at the University of Southern Mississippi have developed coatings for ocean sensors which prevent barnacles from growing on their surface.

These coatings could save the federal government hundreds of thousands of dollars annually, according to Dr. Shelby Thames, executive vice president and professor of polymer science at the University of Southern Mississippi.

Thames recently received a $125,000 grant from the U.S. Department of Commerce to conduct research on antifouling paint for ocean data buoys and ocean sensors.

The Polymer Science Department has previously performed extensive research on coatings for use on ship bottoms. However, the coating of ocean sensors and data buoys presents unique problems in that both are essentially in a static environment.

At present, available commercial coatings have not performed to expectations. As a result, significant expenditures are necessary to recondition data buoys and ocean sensors.

"The coatings developed at USM show extraordinary potential for use not only on ocean sensors and data buoys, but also on oil rigs and any stationary objects in the water," Thames said.

"These coatings contain the same toxic agents which prevent the growth of sea organisms on the surface of moving vessels. However, the polymer design, which accommodates the condition of a static environment, make them ideally suited for ocean sensors and data buoys."

For instance, non-protecting coatings allow barnacles and other sea urchins to rapidly adhere to the bottom of the ocean buoys and sensors, rendering them inefficient and susceptible to extensive deterioration from rust.

Thames said it costs the federal government $6,000 to $10,000 each time an ocean sensor is taken from the ocean floor for barnacle removal, repainting, and redeployment back onto the ocean floor.

Coatings currently on the market for the surface of stationary ocean sensors are unsuccessful in preventing the buildup of sea animals over an extended period of time. As a result, the electrical capacity of the instrument changes and the data obtained is not totally correct, said Thames.

"We have already placed test coatings on metal panels and submerged them on a tripod which also holds the buoys, after 13 months of remaining in an atmosphere identical to that of the sensor, the panels are quite clean."

Thames said the coatings are being tested on a buoy in the Gulf of Mexico near the coast of Louisiana. The buoy is one of the two major locations in which the coated panels have been tested.

One particular experiment in design that is presently underway involves preparing and painting a buoy with several different types of the coatings. Data from this experiment will enable Thames and his colleagues to determine which coatings perform best and subsequently which coating will be selected for use.

"If our coating is successful, it has the potential to save the government several thousand dollars each year," Thames said. "Other consumers, such as oil companies, will also want to use the coatings."

Thames said he hopes the concluding data analysis will be published in scientific literature.

"This research will provide data for us to better understand the requirements of coating functioning as antifouling agents in a stationary environment," Thames said.

Other principal investigators involved in the coatings research include Pete Boyer of Andover, England, Jeff Harris of Clarksdale and Dale Hutchens of Huntsville, Alabama.

USM DEVELOPS NEW COATING—University of Southern Mississippi polymer researchers hold panels that have been painted with a coating presently on the market, left, and a newly developed coating. The coating, developed by researchers at USM for ocean weather buoys, prevents the accumulation of barnacles on the buoy's surface. Dr. Shelby Thames, vice president and professor polymer science at USM, said these coatings could save the federal government hundreds of thousands of dollars annually.

Ole Miss, State and Southern to compete in Sugar Bowl event

The Sugar Bowl Classic National Collegiate Flag Football Championship will be held at the University of New Orleans Wednesday through Saturday, Dec. 26-31.

Men's and women's teams from about 60 universities in the nation will be competing each day from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. on fields near UNO's Health and Physical Education Center. The competition is open to spectators, free.

Championship playoffs will be held Saturday, Dec. 31, at 1 p.m., women's division, and at 2:15 p.m., men's division.

Award ceremonies will follow at 3 p.m. that day in the Health and Physical Education Center.

The top two men's and women's teams will also give exhibition games Monday, Jan. 2, beginning at 5 p.m. in the Superdome, prior to the Sugar Bowl game.

Louisiana teams participating are: men's division, UNO and Louisiana State University-Baton Rouge; women's division, Southeastern Louisiana University, Hammond, and LSU-BR. The UNO and LSU teams each won first place honors in their divisions in the Louisiana Regional Tournament. LSU placed second in both divisions.

Ten other colleges and universities have teams entered in both men's and women's divisions of the national tournament: Armstrong State College, Ga.; University of Central Florida; University of Florida; Georgia Institute of Technology; Georgia Southern University; Georgia Southern College; University of Mississippi; Mississippi State University; University of Southern Mississippi; and the University of West Virginia.

Other teams in the men's division are: University of Akron, Ohio; University of Alabama-Huntsville; Appalachian State University, N.C.; East Carolina University, N.C.; University of Georgia; Georgia College; Guilford College, N.C.

Other teams in the women's division are: University of Alabama; University of Arizona; Berry College, Ga.; Central Connecticut State College; Florida State University; University of Illinois; University of Nebraska; Northern Kentucky University; Old Dominion University; Va.; University of Rhode Island; University of Texas-Arlington; and University of Texas-Austin.

Lady Bulldogs meet Clemson tonight

The Lady Bulldog basketball team, 3-0 after the first week of action, will host the Lady Tigers of Clemson today, and on Dec. 17 the Lady Tigers of Memphis State.

Mississippi State remained unbeaten by holding off Morehead State in the finals of the 1983 Lady Bulldog Classic. Morehead pulled to within a basket in the final minute before State scored two unanswered buckets for a 67-63 win, the last points on a steal and layup by tournament

Most Valuable Player Sandra Butler.

The 6-0 sophomore from Cadwell, Ga., scored 46 points and had 19 rebounds in her two games as she won tournament MVP honors for the second straight year.

After the first three games Coach Peggy Collins' cagers are showing major improvements on offense from last season. The Lady Bulldogs are scoring over 80 points a game and allowing 68 while playing a tough zone defensive set. State is hitting the boards for 43 rebounds a game and giving up 35.

The major improvement is in field goal percentage—as a team State is shooting 48.6 from the field, with the five starters shooting 50.0. The ladies only weakness so far is at the free throw line, where the team is only hitting at 64.1 percent to 71.4 for the opponents.

Individually, Butler leads the team with 21.0 points a game and 10.3 rebounds. The sophomore is hitting an amazing 72.7 percent of her shots from the floor, and at the other end plays fierce defense against opposing post players. She gets help from her backup, freshman Gwen Humphrey, who has scored over 40 points a game in relief and had 5.3 rebounds. Together Butler and Humphrey have given State the 1-2 punch inside that the Lady Bulldogs will need in upcoming games.

On the perimeter guards Polly Branch and Daisy Asher are chipping in 14 and 13 points respectively, with senior guard Michelle Battle coming off the bench to score 10.3 a game. Susan Neville is the starting point guard with 22 assists in three games.

Center Cara Stokes turned an ankle in the early going against Morehead, but the 6-3 freshman should be ready to play again by the 15th.

State was scheduled to play a Dec. 6 date with Mississippi Valley in Itta Bena, but the game was postponed when one official did not appear. The two schools are attempting to work out a new date for the game.

Dunston top scorer in PRC-Meridian game

Lawrence Smithmier, Pearl River Junior College's first-year head basketball coach, may have summed up best his team's recent hard-fought 83-79 win over Meridian Junior College when he said, "This one really turned into a street brawl in the second half."

"The officials let some things go and it turned into a very physical game," Smithmier said, after his Wildcats held off a surging Meridian team in a non-conference game Dec. 1 in Poplarville.

Judging from the way the Wildcats played in the first half of the game, you'd never guess the Eagles were playing against a 3-7 club.

Led by the tenacious play of Donald Dunston, former Poplarville High School star, who rifled in 10-of-11 first-half shots from the floor, the Wildcats stormed out to a 21-5 lead with 12:05 left before the break.

When the 6-4 Dunston banked in a chip shot on a pretty pass from 6-7 center Norvel Shelby to give the Wildcats a commanding 40-18 cushion with 5:20 left in the half, Meridian Coach Jim Redgate must have had thoughts about throwing in the towel.

Thanks to the board work of Dunston and Shelby, the Wildcats outscored the Eagles by an impressive 21-7 margin in the opening half.

"To give you an indication of how well we played," Smithmier said, "Steve Gouner, who is a terrific shooter, was probably our poorest shooter in the first half."

Led by Dunston, PRC connected on 17-of-28 of its shots from the floor (61 percent) and 15-of-18 from the foul line (83 percent) in the opening half.

But the Eagles, trailing 40-18, reeled off 10 straight points to chop into PRC's lead and serve notice that they weren't about to quit.

"That's the way the game should be played," Smithmier said, in reference to his team's 49-33 halftime lead. "We did what we wanted to do in the first half."

However, Smithmier later admitted, "You've got to give Meridian credit. They played hard."

The 3-3 Eagles needed only 7½ minutes in the second half to cut PRC's once commanding lead to 55-51.

Led by forward Alvin Oliver with 16 points, guard Mike Milton who came off the bench with 15 points and R. C. Darden who came off the bench to score 13 more, the Eagles got as close as 78-76 with 31 seconds.

It took a pair of free throws from PRC's point-guard Lonnie Williams to ice the game with one second left on the clock.

"I thought we showed a lot of character," said the rookie coach, who came to PRC after serving at Paducah, Ky. Junior College for ten years.

"We didn't fold. We worked for the good shots and we hit our foul shots."

Dunston and Gouner, PRC's top two scorers with 24 and 19 points respectively, led the way for the Wildcats. Gouner, PRC's No. 2 guard, hit 5-of-5 shots from the foul line also.

Leading the way for the 4-7 Wildcats on the boards was Shelby, who hauled down 14 rebounds to go along with his 13 points.

Point-guard Rene' Acker, the former Picaune star who earned a starting position prior to PRC's recent win over Southwest, also scored in double digits with 13.

"I've been starting Williams on the point, but he went home last weekend and wasn't able to get back because of the bus strike," Smithmier said.

"I started Rene' against Southwest and since I've never broken up a winning combination I started him again Thursday.

New parks policy assures camping space

Campers at Mississippi state parks will be assured of camping space under a new policy to go into effect Jan. 1, 1984.

Reservations for camping pads will be accepted at all parks which have camping facilities.

Bureau of Recreation and Parks Director Aubrey Rozzell said camping reservations were started on an experimental basis last year at Buckcane, Paul B. Johnson and Percy Quin State Parks.

"It was such a success at these parks that we will extend the service to include all parks after Jan. 1," he said. The campgrounds at most parks are divided into two sections. One will be used on a first-come, first-served basis. The other section will be available for reservations.

To reserve a camping space, a $12 non-refundable deposit is required.

This $12 pays for the first day of camping. Subsequent days are at the regular rate.

Reservations can be made in person at the park or by telephone. Telephone reservations require payment by Visa or MasterCard.

For a list of all state parks, facilities, addresses and telephone numbers, write Parks, Box 20305, Jackson, Ms 39209, or telephone 961-5014.

Wildcats choose Delgado win over all-night practice session

Lawrence Smithmier, Pearl River Junior College's first-year basketball coach, gave his bumbling Wildcats an ultimatum during the halftime of Friday's non-conference game in Poplarville with Delgado Community College of New Orleans.

After trailing by as many as 15 points, 29-14, and having taken on the appearance of a team destined to lose its second game in a row, Smithmier gave his Wildcats a choice at the intermission—play, or be sorry if they didn't.

Starting at a nine-point deficit at the intermission, Smithmier told his troops they could go out and play well in the second half, or come back to the gym after the team's post-game meal and practice all night long.

The Wildcats chose Smithmier's first alternative. Playing like a team that didn't look like it needed any practice, the Wildcats came out of the locker room and turned their nine-point deficit into a 78-72 win over Delgado.

"It was a heck of a game," Smithmier said. "We didn't make any changes. We just went out and played like we were supposed to play in the second half."

Smithmier's halftime chat got through to his entire team as five Pearl River players finished the night in double figures. Donald Dunston, a 6-foot-4 forward, led all scorers in the game with 20 points.

Dunston got added support from teammates Norvel Shelby, PRC's 6-7 center, who scored 15 points and hauled down 13 rebounds, Rene' Acker, who netted 14 points, dished out seven assists and came up with six steals, Willie Magee, who chipped in with 11 points and Steve Gouner, who overcame a blow to the nose in the first half and ripped the nets for 10 points.

Neal Ladner, filling in for Gouner, rounding out PRC's scoring punch with eight.

It took the Wildcats only five minutes to erase Delgado's nine-point lead after Smithmier's halftime talk. After taking the lead with 15:00 left, the Wildcats went on to build a 15-point cushion before settling for the six-point win.

Delgado, who came into the game with an 8-4 overall record, also placed five men in double figures. Marcus Hamilton led the way for the losers with 16 points, followed by Keith Gordon with 14, Stacey Riley with 13, Earl Robinson with 12 and Willie Bland with 10.

Smithmier, describing his team's first half performance as "leguway" following PRC's tough 50-47 loss to Hinds, the nation's eighth-ranked team on Thursday, credited point-guard Acker for setting the tone in the second half. "He made a dive for a loose ball that would have made a swimmer proud," said Smithmier. "I wouldn't say that turned the whole game around, but it seemed to serve as an indication of what was yet to come."

The Wildcats are 6-6 overall and winners during four of their last five outings.

NERVOUSNESS
This is a state of affairs that robs your body very quickly of its vitality and energy. You become easily irritated, shaky and even dizzy, tense and tight inside, sapping your joy for living. The symptoms of nervousness are numerous, and there is no definite medical cause or cure. However, Chiropractic authorities have found that almost every case of nerves is accompanied and directly related to irritated nerve fibers within the nervous system. Caused by an existing state of nerve interference within the nervous system. The reason why Chiropractic care is so effective in such situations is because chiropractic is designed to locate spinal nerve interference and interference along the course of the spinal cord and nerves. Once the cause has been found, then Chiropractic spinal adjustments will remove the nerve interference and the symptoms will subside as the nervous system functions normally again and good health is once more restored to the individual along with zest for life.

Considerations listed for sports activity clothing

By Beth Duncan
Extension Clothing Specialist

In the last few years, there has been an increase in emphasis on physical fitness. Joggers, walkers, tennis players and aerobic exercisers abound by the dozens.

Because of this trend, clothing manufacturers have developed all kinds of specialty clothes for fitness buffs. The most important consideration in fashioning fitness is comfort. You need garments that are lightweight and allow for freedom of movement.

Look for garments that are durable, have soft fabric to prevent chafing, are of absorbent fibers, are easy to take off and put on, are easy care and safe.

When jogging, walking or bicycling in early morning fog and evening, be sure to wear light colored garments, garments with a reflective finish, or reflective tape to prevent accidents.

In cold weather, layering of clothing permits air to circulate, keeping you warm and dry. Wear only enough clothing to keep warm. Several light layers are better than a few heavy ones. Always wear a head covering in cold weather.

Garments for serious aerobic exercisers usually are a leotard with tights or support hose. Other suitable garments should be shorts, easy drawstring pants and tee shirts. Blue jeans are not recommended for this type of exercising because they limit body movement.

After each exercise session, launder clothing that came in contact with the skin. This prevents skin irritation and also extends the wear life of your garments. Be sure to follow care labeling instructions for best results.

Remember that fashions for fitness should be comfortable, easy to move in, lightweight, easily laundered and safe.

Exercise and the Ailing Heart

Physical inactivity is a major risk factor in the development of heart disease, the leading cause of death in the United States. Most Americans just don't get any vigorous exercise on their job. Even many sports, such as bowling, golfing or baseball, do not benefit the heart and lungs. To improve the condition of the heart and lungs, exercises must have three key characteristics: They must be brisk-raising heart and breathing rates; be sustained—done at least 15 to 30 minutes without interruption; and be regular—done at least three times a week. Jogging, jumping rope, biking and brisk walking all fit that description.

People recovering from heart attacks are often afraid to exercise because physical effort may bring on the pain—the warning signal that the heart is not getting enough blood to do its work. Yet exercise is just what heart patients need to reduce their risk of having subsequent attacks. Most cardiologists start their heart attack patients on walks up and down the hospital corridors as soon as their condition is stabilized. Later, a gradually increasing exercise program should be designed with the aid of a physician.

Motivation is a necessary ingredient for any long-term exercise program. For the heart patient, staying motivated is particularly hard, because some commonly prescribed heart medications lower the heart rate in order to reduce work load. The by-product is fatigue. Now there are new medications, called channel blockers like Cardizem, or diltiazem, which not only allow patients to exercise longer before the onset of chest pain, but also make it easier for them to stick to a medically structured program, because the medication does not make them tired.

Heart patients must be content with lower levels of exercise than their healthy counterparts, but the benefits are real, as shown in the National Exercise and Heart Disease Project funded by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. In that four-year project, 651 middle-aged men who had survived heart attacks, were divided into exercisers and nonexercisers. Those who exercised had significantly fewer cardiac events, and when general well-being was considered, the exercise group had an 87% edge over the sedentary group.

Fortunately, over the past decade there has been a dramatic increase in America's interest in physical fitness. Perhaps this healthy trend will help to improve the heart disease statistics of the future.

The Sea Coast Echo Book Review

The Wonders of Wildlife Are Explored in Book of Earth's Amazing Animals. Warm-blooded seals thrive in Antarctica's icy vastness.

land-trekking isn't breathe air; cowboy crabs fight adversaries with anemone "six-shooters." They're all in the fascinating cast of characters in the National Wildlife Federation's new book, Earth's Amazing Animals.

Packed with amazing information, spectacular color photographs, and beautiful black and white illustrations, the book's 308 pages explore the adaptations that enable animals to perform spectacular feats.

The book's first chapter, "Wonders in Motion," unfolds like a gallery of speed demons and acrobats. Cheetahs, the world's fastest land animals, burst at 70 miles an hour after their prey. Klipspringers, delicate African antelopes, leap onto rocky ledges the size of a silver dollar. Tropical geckos saunter up walls on traction-padded toes.

Another chapter, "Beyond Wild Expectations," celebrates nature's overachievers—creatures that thrive in hostile environments. The desert-dwelling fennec fox radiates excess heat through its oversized ears; penguins' insulation works so well that the birds actually overheat in their frigid home; deep-sea fish come equipped with living lights to see their way through their perpetual night.

From the tiny Australian honey possum to the giant humpback whale, all the creatures in Earth's Amazing Animals make for fascinating reading for the entire family. It is available for $16.95 plus $1.55 per order for handling before Dec. 31, 1983, (after Jan. 1, 1984, price is $18.95 plus $1.55 per order for handling) from the National Wildlife Federation, Earth's Amazing Animals, 1412 16th St., NW, Washington, D.C. 20036.

State awards 61 letters

Sixty-one players off Mississippi State's 1983 football team have been awarded varsity letters on the recommendation of Coach Emory Bellard and approval of Director of Athletics Carl Maddox. The listing includes 15 four-year lettermen from State's 1980-83 squads which competed in a pair of bowl games ('80 Sun and '81 Hall of Fame) and which played on teams with a composite record of 25-21.

Nineteen of the lettermen have completed eligibility at MSU while 21 players in the group are earning letters for the first time as Bulldogs.

Five local students march in Pride Band

The Pride of Mississippi Marching Band, performed before more than 322,000 fans at nine University of Southern Mississippi football games during 1983.

Local students who were part of the 350-member 1983 Pride included Gary Wayne, Hope, Clinchee, Robert J. Favard Jr., Howard Leslie (Les) Parker and Frederick L. Wilkerson, all of Bay St. Louis.

In addition to the musicians, the Pride includes the Dixie Darlings, the rifle and flag corps and feature twirlers.

A new component of the Pride which made its first appearance in 1983 was the Eaglettes, a twirling corps.

FIRST MISSIONARY BAPTIST CHURCH

First Missionary Baptist holiday schedule listed

First Missionary Baptist Church in Bay St. Louis will open a series of special holiday services at 5:30 p.m. Sunday with a Pre-Christmas Program.

Sunday School Christmas Day, Sunday, Dec. 25 is scheduled for 9:30 a.m. followed by a 10:45 a.m. worship service, according to Rev. Lawrence Collins, pastor.

Regular Sunday evening services are cancelled on Christmas Day.

An Old Fashioned Watch

Meeting will begin at 10 p.m. New Year's Eve, Saturday, Dec. 31.

The New Year's Day schedule Sunday, Jan. 1, includes Sunday School at 9:30 a.m.; morning worship service, 10:50 a.m.; and an Ushers Appreciation Program at 2:30 p.m.

Special guests at that afternoon service will be Rev. Atell Coleman, pastor, and members of his congregation at Christian Mission Baptist Church, Gulfport.

St. Ann's Catholic Church Clermont Harbor

A thought for meditation from our pastor, Father Lambert Stack, ST:

"The Golden Rule is of no use to you whatsoever unless you realize that it is your move."

—Dr. Frank Crane

Father Stack has announced there will be no CCD classes Tuesday, Dec. 20 for grade school students.

Because of the Christmas holidays the monthly luncheon-social sponsored by the altar society will not be held this month but will be held as usual the fourth Wednesday in January.

Father Stack was guest of honor Friday night when St. Ann-St. John Altar Society hosted their annual Christmas party in the parish hall, with 27 ladies attending.

A gaily decorated Christmas tree adorned with shining ornaments and glowing lights, Christmas arrangements and colorful seasonal table decorations added to the festive mood of the group.

A surprise visit from none other than Santa Claus himself, bedecked in all his finery, accompanied by his helper, Princess Fahey, added to the holiday spirit.

After distributing a gift and candy canes to everyone Santa won resounding applause from the group with his lively chicken imitations.

Game prizes were won by Santa, Father Stack, Irene Graff, Dot Neubig and Virginia Thomas.

Winners of the door prizes were Catherine Little, Mildred Rupp and Mable Brown.

Committee chairlady was Irene Graff assisted by Lois Sauter and Dot Neubig in charge of decorations and Mary Caillier the refreshments.

VFW brings Santa to Day Care Center

On Monday, Dec. 5, Hospital Chairman Roland members of Theodore S. Price Post 3253 of Bay St. Louis Veterans of Foreign Wars entertained 32 children at Hancock County Child Development Center.

Jane Baumgartner is director.

The occasion was highlighted by a visit from Santa Claus.

Due to overhead congestion in the area Santa had to land his helicopter in Gulfport.

Bay St. Louis police were called into service to get Santa to the school.

Gift-filled stockings were given to each child as Santa talked to each one.

Later cookies and milk were served.

Members of the VFW assisting were District President Mary Fedele, District Hospital Chairman Jo Fedele, Commander Charlie Black,

The Chrismon tree in the sanctuary is decorated with monograms of Christ.

All designs are symbols for Christ which have been passed down through centuries of Christian history.

These symbols are designed to make more meaningful the celebration of Christmas with emphasis upon God's great gift to the world; our Lord and Savior—Jesus Christ.

All Chrismons are made in white and gold to symbolize the purity and majesty of the Son of God.

The Women of the Church made these Chrismon ornaments under the guidance of Alice Hondzinski and Marion Rapp, chairman of the Chrismon project.

Lady Wildcats score a near miss against Meridian

The first thing Ned Eades did when he succeeded Billy Holmes as Pearl River College's women's head basketball coach was to find a secretary.

No, Eades didn't go out and hire a secretary to answer the phone, type and organize his filing cabinet. What he had in mind was someone who could dictate the course of a basketball game with a single swoop of the wrist.

He found what he was looking for in Arlisa Silas.

"Billy Holmes never recruited Arlisa," Eades said. "He didn't think she could play college ball. Arlisa was working as a secretary and the first thing I did when I got the job was go talk her into playing at Pearl River."

In PRC's recent heart-throbbing 79-77 overtime loss to Meridian Junior college, the underdog forward tossed in a team-high 24 points.

"She's been a big surprise for us," Eades said about the 5-7 freshman who has canned 24, 23 and 17 points in her last three outings.

Led by Silas, Debbie Mark and Darlene Davis, the Lady Wildcats fell inches short in a bid to stage a dramatic comeback from behind in a small but noisy PRC crowd.

Trailing 30-29 at intermission, the Lady Wildcats took an extended nap and woke up trailing 50-38 with only 13:00 left in regular play.

Then, again, led by Silas and Mark, who scored 11 of her 18 points in the second half, the Lady Wildcats came roaring back to turn that 14-point deficit into a 65-64 lead on Mark's spinning baseline jumper with 1:12 left on the clock.

Mark, another tiny 5-7 forward, scored eight points in the final 3:00, including a behind-the-back driving lay-up with five seconds left to send the game into overtime knotted at 67-67.

However, on PRC's first possession in the overtime period Mark fell to the floor with a knee injury.

"That was the deciding factor in my opinion," Eades said. "We already had Richelle Lumpkin (PRC's 5-10 forward) sitting on the bench with a broken bone in her foot."

Meridian, 5-3 overall this year, took advantage of Mark's absence by scoring the first four points in overtime and then exchanged buckets with the Lady 'Cats for the remainder of the extra 5:00 session.

PRC had one last chance to send the game into a second overtime period, but Kelli Lott's shot from the top of the key failed to drop at the buzzer.

"People come in here and already have us marked off the list," Eades said after the game. "We have five girls playing major college ball who should be playing at Pearl River. These girls go out there and put out 110 percent."

When Eades took over, several returning players who were disenchanted about Coach Holmes' sudden departure decided to pack up and transfer elsewhere.

"I'll tell you this," Eades continued. "We're not going to play dead against anyone."

"I think the fans like to watch a team that hustles. We were down by 11 or 12 points the other night against Southwest and came back to win that one in overtime."

Along with Silas and Mark, freshmen Marilyn Hart and sophomore Darlene Davis also finished in double figures for the 2-5 Lady Wildcats. Davis finished the game with 16 points while Hart netted 11.

The Lady Eagles were led by center Marilyn Davis, the game's leading scorer with 32 points; guard Angela Lee who canned three long-range set shots in overtime and finished with 16 points; guard Jerene Anderson who tossed in 13 points; and Antionette Diggs who netted 10.

SPECTACULAR REHEARSAL—Making final preparations for their recent production of 'Christmas Spectacular' are C.B. Murphy Elementary School students, from left, Jorma Wagon, Bernard Burton, Tammy Singer, Joe Harvey, Lisa

Wyman, Rachel Wagon, Stacey Hughes, Wayne Quille, Donald Dawsey and Chip Bennett. The annual choral program, which was presented in the school gymnasium, included treats for preschoolers.

Merit Semifinalists include local students

Some 158 high school seniors were recently recognized by Mississippi State University for their selection as the state's 1984 National Merit Semifinalists.

The Merit Program, begun in 1955, annually provides scholarships for college undergraduate study through competitive examinations.

The program is independently supported by some 600 sponsors, including corporations, company foundations, professional and business organizations and some 200 colleges and universities.

Semifinalists, the highest scorers within each state, represent less than half of one percent of a state's secondary school graduating seniors.

During the Nov. 30 campus program, MSU President James D. McComas and Alumni Association President Charles S. McElroy of Starkville extended congratulations and presented each semifinalist with a copy of Webster's Collegiate Dictionary.

Students unable to attend will receive dictionaries from their county's alumni association.

The student scholars were also given tours of the campus and were recognized again at halftime of the MSU-University of Houston basketball game in Humphrey Coliseum.

The 1984 Merit Semifinalist include George M. Doyle and Michael T. McMahan, both from St. Stanislaus High School, Bay St. Louis; Kristin Linz, Coast Episcopal High School, Pass Christian; and Angela Zimmerman-Hurlbut, Pass Christian High School.

Rodeo queen contest slated for January

The Miss Dixie National and Junior Miss Dixie National Contests will be held Jan. 14, 1984 at the Trade Mart Building in Jackson.

The winners will reign over the Dixie National Rodeo.

The contest is open to girls between the ages of ten and 20.

There are two divisions, one for girls aged ten to 14 and one for girls aged 15 to 20.

Contestants will be judged in an interview and in appearance onstage. The top ten contestants will also be judged on riding ability.

Each contestant will receive a gift pack for entering.

The winners will receive a crown, banner and gifts from several area stores.

The entry fee of $35 may be paid by personal sponsors or business sponsors.

Pre-schoolers discuss energy

Pass Christian Public Library and Mississippi Power Company Energy Communications Department sponsored an energy conservation education program for kindergarten-age children from St. Paul's and Cedar Point Schools on Monday, Dec. 5, at the library on Heirn Avenue.

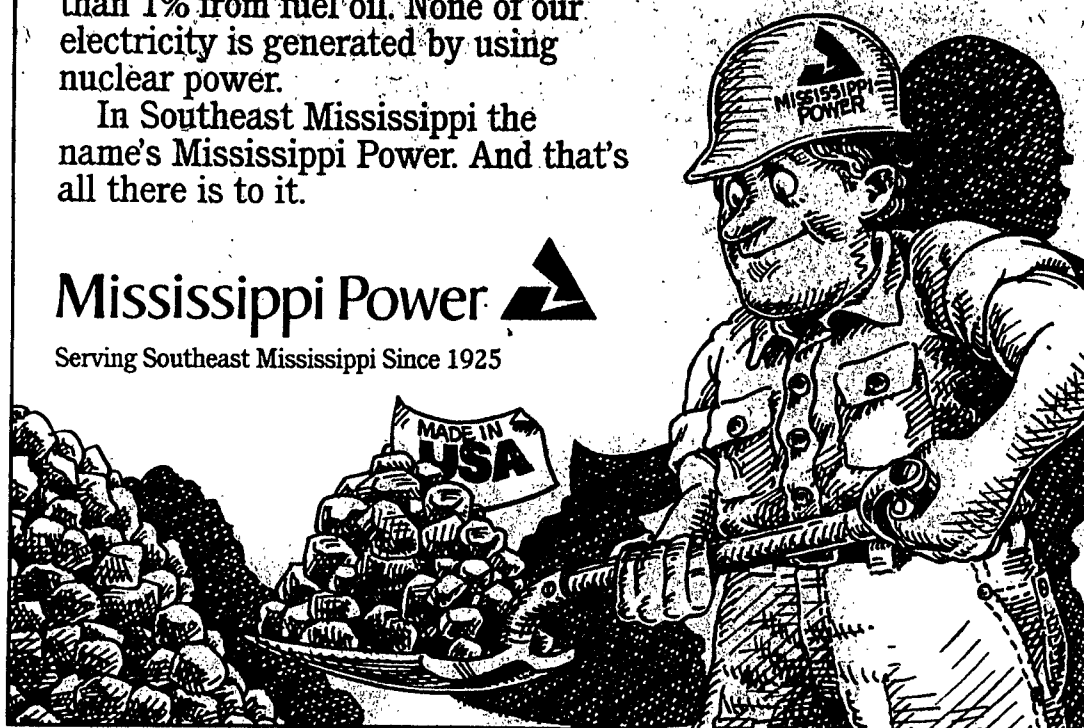

Philip Ward presented the program, which consisted of a slide show and discussion geared for the pre-school child.

IT'S A FACT

Mississippi Power Company generates over 95% of its electricity by using coal from Alabama, Colorado, Illinois, Kentucky, and Utah. About 4% is from natural gas. Less than 1% from fuel oil. None of our electricity is generated by using nuclear power.

In Southeast Mississippi the name's Mississippi Power. And that's all there is to it.

HNC home ec, FHA host reception

By NAN P. EHRLBRIGHT
The third annual Christmas reception featuring delicacies prepared by Hancock North Central High School home economics classes and Future Homemakers of America members took place Friday, Dec. 9.

High school home economics teachers Lanette Randall and Debbie Niolet said the students had been preparing for the fete for at least a week beforehand.

The active participants included ninth, tenth, 11th and 12th grade students, including about ten boys in an advanced food class, Randall said.

In addition to preparing food in class, about 50 students volunteered to prepare dishes at home for the reception.

A total of some 100 students were involved in the project, Randall said.

The home economics room was decorated for the occasion with Christmas wreaths, candles and centerpieces.

Food was served from 8:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

Niolet said that the janitors, maintenance personnel, bus drivers, cafeteria workers and all teachers in grades one through 12 at Hancock North Central were invited to attend.

School administrators, Hancock County School Trustees and Superintendent Terrell Randolph also attended.

Randall estimated that some 150 persons were served during the day.

Those in attendance received a lapel pin in the form of a recipe book including the foods featured at the reception.

The menu included banana crush, wassail, egg nog, Swedish meatballs, hanky pankies, sausage cheese balls, sweet-sour smokeys, ham rolls, confetti cheese ball, shrimp dip, artichoke dip, curry dip and California onion dip.

Also featured were red velvet cake with cream cheese frosting, carrot pineapple bread, four-in-one cookies, snowball cookies, Martha

Washington balls, rum balls, pecan sables, glazed pecans and pecan pralines.

Shrimp Dip
1 8-oz. package cream cheese
1 can shrimp
2 or 3 T. chopped onion
1 T. parsley flakes
2-3 dashes of Worcestershire sauce
2-3 dashes of Tabasco sauce
2 T. mayonnaise
cream (to thin)

Let cream cheese soften. Mash shrimp with a fork. Add shrimp to cream cheese. Add onion and other ingredients and mix well.

Banana Crush
4 C. sugar
1 46-oz. can pineapple juice
2 C. orange juice
5 bananas, mashed
4-6 32-oz. bottles of 7-Up
1 package frozen raspberries (optional)
red food coloring (optional)

Combine sugar and 6 cups water in large saucepan. Bring to a boil. Cool. Add fruit juices and bananas; mix well. Freeze. Place fruit mixture in punch bowl. Allow to soften slightly; break into slush. Add 7-Up. Add raspberries and enough food coloring to tint as desired. Yield: 25-30 servings.

Confetti Cheese Ball
4 8-oz. packages cream cheese, softened
1 large can pitted black olives, chopped
1 bunch green onions, chopped
1 jar dried beef, chopped

Combine all ingredients and shape into four balls. If desired, sprinkle top with dried parsley.

Ladner. The reception is planned and prepared annually by Hancock North Central High School's home economic classes and FHA members. (Staff photo by Nan Patton Ehrbright)

Hanky Pankies
1 lb. each ground meat, hot sausage
1 lb. Velveeta cheese, diced
1 T. oregano
½ t. garlic salt
½ t. Worcestershire sauce
party rye bread

sausage in skillet, stirring until crumbly. Drain. Add next four ingredients, stirring until cheese is melted. Spread on bread. Place on baking sheet. Bake at 400 degrees for 12 minutes or until bubbly, or broil for five minutes.

Brown ground meat and Yields: 75-80 servings

Bay woman to judge Miss Mississippi USA

Emmy Award winning TV personality and recording artist Jim Gibson will visit the Coast Dec. 16-17 to serve as master of ceremonies and guest performer for the 1984 Miss Mississippi USA Pageant, according to John Rester, state director of the pageant.

Mr. Gibson will remain on the Coast throughout the two-day event to be held in Biloxi.

The young lady chosen as 1984 Miss Mississippi will be crowned by Becky Case of Jackson, the current Miss USA, and will represent the magnolia State in the Miss USA Pageant, to be televised nationally in 1984, Rester said.

Serving as judges this year will be Hollis Carr of Gulfport, president of the Gulfport Rotary Club, president of the Harrison County Chapter of the Mississippi State Alumni Association and partner and general manager of Watkins Olds-Cadillac; Mary Jo and Raymond Vaughn, professional hair design specialists and skin care consultants of Jackson; Mrs. Virginia Wagner of Bay St. Louis head chaperone for Miss USA

Pageants from 1979-1983 and Miss Universe Pageants from 1981-1983; and Don Wylie, of Biloxi, vice-president and director of marketing for Hancock Bank and past president of the Harrison County Tourism Commission.

The pageant will be hosted at the Royal d'Iberville Hotel Dec. 16-17 with finals being held at 8 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 17.

Tickets may be purchased by calling 888-1210. They will also be available at the Royal d'Iberville Hotel.

Junked Cars? turn them into sculptures

One's trash may become another's art.

In Jim Gary's case, he turns junked cars into sculptures of dinosaurs.

Gary has combined his love of cars, his interest in dinosaurs, and his talents as a sculptor into a successful career, according to this month's issue of Ranger Rick, the monthly children's publication of the National Wildlife Federation. In fact, Gary's work was shown last year at the Carnegie Museum of Natural History in Pittsburgh, and is now on display at his studio in Red Bank, N.J.

It all began when Gary, as a teenager, would comb auto junkyards looking for parts to rebuild old cars. Soon his artistic eye began to imagine the skulls, ribs and backbones of monstrous dinosaurs amid the car cases, hoods and car bumpers.

Today, his priorities have changed. Now he pokes around junkyards in search of special auto parts that can become works of art—sections of wreckage that can be cleaned, cut and shaped into the metal pieces he needs. He then welds the old car parts to form junk giants ranging from a tyrannosaurus to a pterosaur, and paints the finished product.

It may take months or even years for Gary to build one of his prehistoric beasts, according to Ranger Rick. "Apatosaurus," his largest work to date, is made from over 500 auto parts—all discovered in New Jersey junkyards. Most of the auto parts he uses come from cars more than 10 years old, this sculptor says, because they have more "character" than those from newer automobiles.

By creating his amazing sculptures from things that have been thrown away, Gary wants to show the importance of recycling materials that some people think are "used up." We should all be less wasteful, he thinks—before we find ourselves as extinct as the dinosaur.

Jim Gary made this prehistoric beast from a VW roof.

Gulf Park course to improve learning

Junior High and high school students wishing to improve their learning skills will be interested in the Strategies for learning short course at the University of Southern Mississippi-Gulf Park Feb. 11, 18, 15 and March 3.

Secondary students will learn techniques that will aid them in coping with the demands of their school work. These strategies are important to all students no matter what they have decided to do after high school.

The strategies which teach students how to learn more effectively are skimming and scanning techniques in reading, test-taking skills, time management, listening and questioning, remembering techniques, problem solving, note taking and outlining.

Instruction, by special prepared certified teachers, will be in small groups to maximize learning opportunities, according to workshop director Dr. Basil Gaar.

Students in grades 10-12 will meet from 8:10 a.m. to noon and students grades 7-9 will meet each Saturday from 1-3:50 p.m.

The skills learned can be applied in all school subjects and students with the desire or need to improve their performance and grades should call Gulf Park at 865-4508.

SON OF BIG RED—A good home with a large yard surrounded with a tall fence is needed for this large, happy and healthy male Irish setter named Big Red Jr. at the Hancock County Animal Shelter on Gulfside Drive in Waveland. A concerned citizen found the energetic dog dodging traffic on US-90. Big Red is about two years old and apparently a thoroughbred animal. For adoption information talk to the humane society volunteer who will be at the shelter from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. today, from 10 a.m. until noon on Friday and from 11 a.m. until 1 p.m. on Saturday. The shelter also has a variety of nice dogs available for adoption. (Staff photo by Wayne Ducomb Jr.)

Mrs. Mississippi to be chosen

The deadline is nearing for entering the 1984 Mrs. Mississippi-America Pageant, State Director Doris Modjeski, reports.

Application deadline for the eighth annual pageant has been set for Jan. 6, 1984.

The Mississippi State Pageant is the official preliminary to the national Mrs. America Pageant, the only major nationally televised pageant exclusively dedicated to America's 52 million wives.

Applicants must be U.S. citizens, at least 18 years-old, unmarried for at least one year as the entry date of the state pageant, and residents of Mississippi for at least of six months.

The pageant will be held

March 10-11 at the Sheraton Regency Hotel in Jackson, where contestants from throughout the state will vie for the coveted title of Mrs. Mississippi-America 1984 during the personality, evening gown and swimsuit judging competitions.

Kathy Dedeaux of Jackson is the current Mrs. Mississippi. A former medical secretary, she presently works as an aerobics instructor.

State Director Doris Modjeski is also former Mrs. Mississippi herself, having won the title in 1980.

ETV Brief

"The Kimbell," a half-hour documentary, takes a look back at the history of the Kimbell Art Museum in Fort Worth, Tex., and focuses on its contributions to the world of art at 9 p.m., Friday, Dec. 23 on the Mississippi ETV Network.

The museum is considered by some of the nation's top experts as one of the finest museums of its size in the country.

Since its founding in the fall of 1972, it has come to own several of the world's greatest masterpieces and has been host to many important traveling exhibitions.

AG Affairs by Ed Blake

Time and again delegates to the 62nd annual meeting of the Mississippi Farm Bureau Federation in Jackson last week pointed out in their annual policy session not only that little things count, but additionally grow much larger in importance the closer one gets to them.

Take the vigor of planting seed, for instance.

At the farm convention as delegates hammered out the exact wording of their policy recommendations for 1984, farmers in the assembly represented both sides of the planting seed vigor question. And the preponderant majority of the delegates had a keener interest in obtaining vigor in their planting seed than a responsibility of providing vigor in the seed they grow and assuring the world that it is there until transfiguration day.

Vigor defined means strength or force with which to grow, and with seed this means from the very outset. For farmers who've had insufficient rain this means sufficient vigor or strength to push through an oftentimes crusty, dry soil—or from slightly deeper down in the earth when seed have to be planted there where the moisture is found during drier planting conditions.

So, for farmers seed vigor is important. Such was the declaration of Humphreys County farmer Charles Pinkerton as he went to a microphone in the large auditorium to emphasize farmers' dependence on seed vigor.

The farmers had halted on their examination and ratification of various policy topics on seed and feed testing, and two farmer delegates who grow planting seed came to the microphones to express concern over a suggested recommendation that actual germination and vigor should be printed on seed tags.

A small thing, yes, but not when the facts are made known.

Boyd Eifling, a young Washington County farmer who produces and processes planting seed for sale, got the attention of the farm group when he pointed out that it was counter productive to ask that a measure of the vigor of planting seed be required for tags that go on bags of seed for sale when so far there is no standard of measurement of vigor.

And when the farm group has for some time encouraged that study be given to vigor testing standardization. There was no opposition to a germination report on tags since that is easily and accurately determined.

Another planting seed producer, Alex Ramsay of Covington County, rallied to the cause that action concerning seed vigor would be premature, and place seed producers in an untenable position.

The producers made the point quite well that you can't measure something without nicks on a scale that means something. Even human vigor has to measure up. No boxing champion ever wore the gold belt without demonstrating his capacity to whip another into submission or subconsciousness in a given time period under prescribed conditions.

And so it went. A motion was forthcoming from the floor that the recommendation that actual germination and vigor should be printed on seed tags be deleted.

And in a sense of fairness, a loud voice vote of primarily seed buyers, boomed out the desire to delete the proposition until a standard of measurement is achieved through the research process.

It was a little thing, but it counted for a lot.

If you're looking for a delightful, thoughtful "extra something" for friends and neighbors this Christmas, why not do as one delightful, thoughtful young wife and mother I know does?

Please their palates with fragrant loaves of "Monkey Bread" for Christmas morning breakfast! Most of us are much too busy with last minute tasks and preparations for the Yuletide feast to think about Christmas breakfast - and suddenly, everyone's hungry and it's quite a while till Christmas dinnertime!

I can't recall where the name came from, though I strongly suspect it's because children and adults alike love to pick at the bread much as monkeys do, popping the pieces into their mouths. Or perhaps it's because the round loaf resembles the tropical breadfruit, which is said to look like a loaf of bread and have the texture of bread when baked... and, I suppose, monkeys eat it, but I don't know, do you?

At any rate, a loaf of monkey bread, encased in clear wrap, with a red bow atop, is sure to be received with delight. I used to have a long recipe for making this treat, and so I stopped making it for awhile.

Then this old hen of a cook learned from a much younger, and busier one, who's never too busy to do - or cook - something nice for someone...

and, often that's me, for it you haven't guessed, by now, she's my daughter-in-law, Sue Breath McGuire. So, here's SUE'S MONKEY BREAD.

4 cans buttermilk biscuits
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 tsp. cinnamon
1 stick margarine
3/4 cup sugar
3/4 tsp. cinnamon

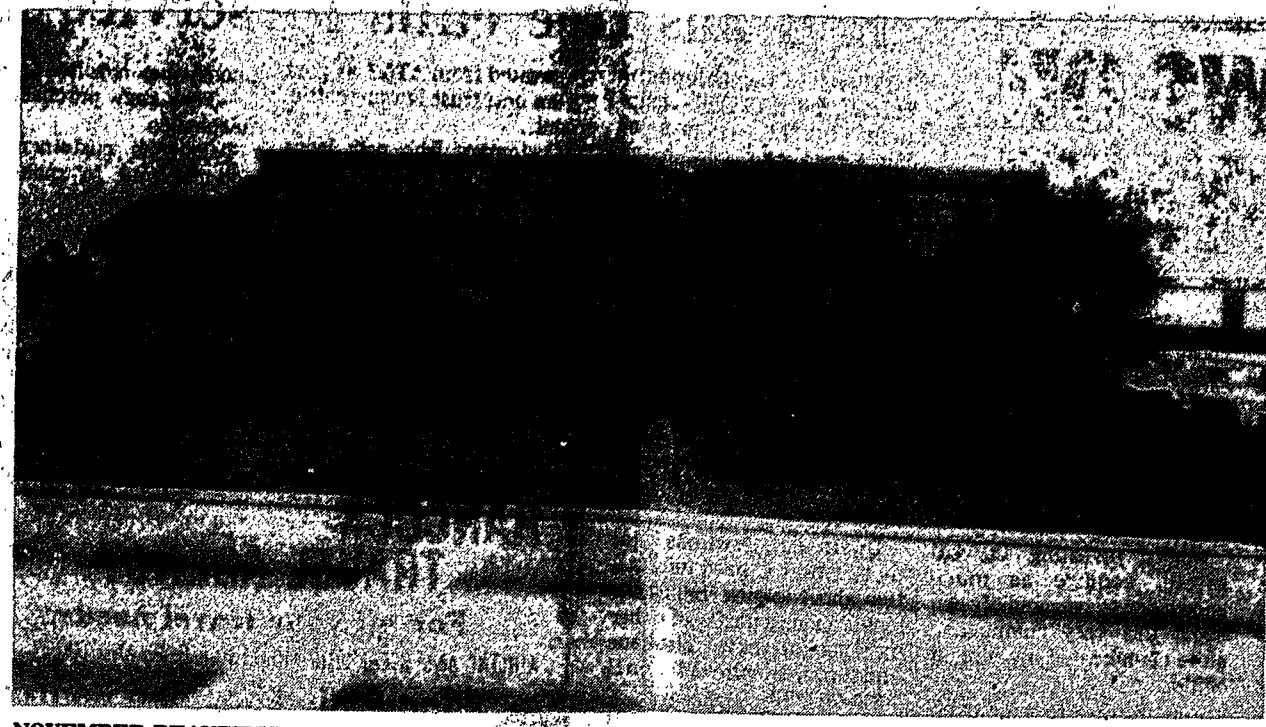

Preheat the oven to 350 degrees. Quarter the biscuits and roll each quarter in a mixture of a half cup sugar and a half teaspoon cinnamon. Pile in greased and floured bundt pan (or you may use an angelfood tube pan.)

Melt the margarine in a saucepan. Add 3/4 cup sugar and 3/4 teaspoon cinnamon, heating until the sugar melts. Pour over the biscuits. Bake at 350 for 30 to 35 minutes.

Remove from the oven, let stand for ten minutes, then invert on a cake platter... and "dig in", just pulling apart pieces with your fingers... delicious. And, incidentally, a fine way to keep small boys (or girls, though how would I know, with six grandsons?) busy helping put it all together ahead of time... Sue knows about keeping young ones busy - she and spouse Jack have four sons... but grandma's space has run out, so I can't start bragging on 'em all!

(Copyright, 1983, Katharine D. M. Caire)

P.S. This freezes well - the bread, not the boys!

GCRL study predicts shrimp yield

J. Y. Christmas, Gulf Coast Research Laboratory assistant director emeritus (retired) for fisheries research and management, and Frederick Sutter, fisheries data coordinator at the Laboratory, have written a paper on "Shrimp Sampling and Yield in Mississippi".

The document was presented at a Shrimp Yield Prediction workshop, sponsored by the American Institute of Fishery Research Biologists last month in Galveston, Tex.

The first efforts to predict yield from brown shrimp resources in Mississippi Sound and adjacent waters were initiated by Christmas in 1962 with the systematic collecting of shrimp postlarvae from the nursery area.

When shrimp eggs hatch into postlarvae in waters outside the barrier reefs, the tiny organisms move into the near-shore areas.

Through regular weekly sampling activities GCRL fisheries personnel caught postlarval brown shrimp in March, April and May. By counting the postlarvae collected in these samples, GCRL personnel estimate the amount available to be caught when the season opens.

This methodology generated interest not only locally but also internationally.

Christmas was invited to Hawaii in 1976 to discuss the results of his work.

By correlating the environmental parameters (water temperature and salinity) and fishing effort with the number of postlarvae, Christmas and his coworkers improved the prediction of brown shrimp available for harvest.

Work is now under way to further improve these estimates in order to provide the shrimp industry with the best possible information, Christmas says.

Predicting when to open the brown shrimp season is a major aspect of work at GCRL that was discussed at the workshop.

Fisheries personnel carried out an intensive juvenile shrimp sampling program in selected areas of Mississippi Sound from 1976 through 1981 to determine the best time to open the season in accordance with state law.

Data from the samples were used to develop weekly population diagrams which, when regressed on time, predicted a time frame in which 75 percent of the brown shrimp on the fishing grounds should reach 60 count per pound or larger.

This "real time" data was put in weekly reports to the state management agency.

During the period of 1975-1981, the Mississippi Marine Conservation Commission and its successor, the Bureau of Marine Resources (the present state management agency), did open the fishing season within a time frame based upon the laboratory samples.

The results were that the average size of the shrimp harvested increased, making them more valuable, and the total volume of the catch was larger.

After the first year's experience Christmas estimated that the shrimp crop increased approximately $1 million in value to the state due to the increase in size of the shrimp harvested.

Christmas noted that using the factors of water temperature and salinity, the number of postlarvae collected and the amount of fishing effort in their mathematical model accounted for 85.4 percent of the fluctuation in the commercial brown shrimp catch in June and July.

Both Christmas and Sutter expressed a need for developing a model including additional factors reflecting the direct impact of environmental conditions on young shrimp and the indirect impact on their food sources, migratory patterns and predation throughout spawning and time in the nursery areas.

REAL VIEWS ON REAL ESTATE

USING CONTRACT CONTINGENCIES

QUESTION: In looking at some vacant land as a possible investment, the real estate broker told me he could include a contingency clause to take care of the financing. Would you please explain the use of such clauses? T. L., Ashland ANSWER: Dear T.L.: It is common to include various conditions and contingency clauses in real estate contracts. These give the parties an opportunity to limit their liability if certain events occur or fail to occur and provide sufficient flexibility to truly express their contractual intent.

Care should be taken to specify with definiteness and certainty the conditions and contingency have so that a reasonable man could know precisely what was intended. Poor drafting may cause the obligation to be too vague for enforcement.

If you are buying real estate, such as a vacant lot you are interested in, but you need to check certain matters, include a contingency clause in the purchase contract.

The most common contingency clause is the type suggested by your broker, namely financing. You would want to insert a clause that states the financing you need, such as "Owner agrees to finance $10,000 of the purchase price at 10 percent interest."

If that type of financing is not available then you will not have to buy the property and all of your earnest money will be refunded.

Another common clause pertains to the sale of existing property. It can state that you are not obligated to buy if you cannot sell your property. Contingency clauses can be inserted for any reason, such as to check the structural soundness, presence of wood destroying insects, and others.

Your real estate broker can assist with these provisions unless they become too complicated. In that case, a lawyer will be needed to help write the contract.

WHAT IS DIFFERENT?
QUESTION: I seem to have made very sound investments in everything I've invested in except real estate. Is there any certain advice that I can use to help me make better investments? J. G., Pascagoula

ANSWER: Dear J. G.: As you know, many options are available to the would-be investor, including stocks, bonds, money market certificates, gold and, of course, real estate. However, real estate has many unique characteristics and features that make it a unique investment. It is this uniqueness that sets it apart from other types of investments.

For instance, unlike stocks and bonds, real estate is not traded in a central market such as the New York Stock Exchange. In addition, real estate is a nonhomogeneous product which means that no two parcels of real estate are exactly alike. These two features make it difficult to monitor the current value of real estate.

If the current value is difficult to calculate, then it would follow that it would be difficult for a potential investor to know exactly when it is the best time to buy and sell real estate. This is in essence what you have in real estate—an uninformed market. That does not mean that the participants are not intelligent; rather, it simply means that the normal market information that is readily available is not as available for real estate.

Real estate also requires relatively large cash investments, even though most of the purchase price may be financed. Buying and selling can be expensive and time-consuming. Fees and closing costs can be significant. On the other hand, real estate can, and often does, provide important income tax benefits and may be very rewarding when property values increase.

Before investing in real estate, acquire as much knowledge as you possibly can about this very unique and quite complicated investment option.

Bell has free calls for service

Mississippi telephone customers with Bell equipment in their homes or businesses are now being served by new sales and service centers.

Customers may get assistance with billing, repair or service by calling toll-free telephone numbers for assistance with billing, repair or service.

Home telephone customers who have questions about leasing, purchasing, repair or billing for their telephones should call toll-free 1-800-555-8111.

Business owners or managers who need information about leasing, billing, installation or transfer of either existing or new telephone equipment should call 1-800-437-0240.

Responsibility for Bell telephone equipment sales and leasing transfers from South Central Bell to AT&T on Jan. 1, 1984, when all 22 Bell telephone companies are separated from AT&T as part of an anti-trust lawsuit settlement.

Customers who now lease telephones from South Central Bell will have three options when AT&T assumes responsibility for telephone equipment on Jan. 1:

—They may continue leasing their equipment from AT&T.

—They may purchase the phones they now lease.

—They may purchase new telephones.

Telephone customers are not required to make any decision regarding these options at this time, however.

All home telephone customers will be mailed a detailed explanation of changes in responsibility and options before the end of the year.
